F. AUGUSTUS HEINZE RESIGNS AS BANK HEAD; BROTHER OUT OF N. Y. STOCK EXCHANGE

COPPER FIGHT IS STRUGGLE TO KNIFE

FIRCE BATTLE MAY NOW IN-VOLVE RICHER HEINZE

HIS MARKET COUP FAILED

Otto Heinze & Co.'s Effort to Corner Copper May Have Drawn the Fire of Standard Oil.

BUTTE, Mont., Oct. 17.—The State Savings Bank, doing a general banking business, closed its doors today. Its New York correspondent is the Mercantile National Bank, where Heinze resigned today. It has a paid up capital of $300,000 and deposits of four millions.

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—F. Augustus Heinze has just admitted that he will tender his resignation as president of the Mercantile National bank at a directors meeting today. He has not sold his stock in the bank, saying that owing to the copper fight now going on he is tied up and that the presidency of the bank should go to a man able to give his undivided time to the position.

Heinze in Life Struggle.
The stock exchange governing committee today suspended for one year Max H. Schultze, board member of the Otto Heinze Co. The promised resignation of Augustus Heinze from the presidency of the bank was offered to Comptroller of Currency Ridgely at noon. No denial is made that the Heinze brothers are panned in their copper corner and are making a desperate fight to escape the clutches of Standard Oil. Their enemies in the street generally attribute the collapse of the copper shares to Otto Heinze's mistakes.

Forced Firm to Wall.
In a formal statement issued this morning the firm of Otto Heinze was declared solvent, and able and will "a paid up capital of $300,000 and deposits of four millions."

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—F. Augustus Heinze & Co. had attempted to corner copper, and there were factors able to strike back harder than had been anticipated. This started the whole business.

The suspension of the stock exchange firm of Gross & Kleeburg, 26 Broad street, was announced shortly before 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon. With it came the simple statement from a member of the firm which in a few brief words tells much of the story:

"We have been buying United Copper for Otto Heinze & Co., and after doing so they refused to take it. That is all there is to it."

Last night found Otto Heinze with his back against the wall fighting desperately to effect a settlement which would save the firm. His rich brother, Fritz Augustus Heinze, president of the Mercantile National bank, who seems not to have been involved in the attempt to corner United Copper, was helping him.

Standard Oil Strikes.
When the raid on United Copper began Wall street thought it saw the revengeful hand of the Standard Oil striking at the back of F. A. Heinze, who had whipped them in the Montana fight and who helped to smash Amalgamated on the building of which Henry H. Rogers expended so much time and his most crafty skill. When it developed that the richer Heinze was not concerned in the real fighting, there was some relief, as no one knew how deep the Standard Oil siletto would go once it found an opening. Now, however, rumors that Heinze is hard pressed, are rife, and comment connects the reported failure of the Butte State bank with the affair. Notwithstanding the assertion that Standard Oil is not back of the fight, it is believed that an old score is being settled by the Rodgers' crowd.

SMALL STEALS MARCH ON STRIKE COMMITTEE

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—President Small of the telegraphers, accompanied by three detectives, this morning stole a march on the general executive committee by taking possession of the strike headquarters. Members of the committee consulted an attorney, later forcing Small to retire to his private office. The latter threatens to bring proceedings to regain possession. Small declares still that there will be no convention at Milwaukee.

POLICE BOARD TO MEET NEXT WEEK TO CHOOSE CHIEF

WILL THEN NAME SUCCESSOR TO CHIEF BYRNE

NOT TO DISCUSS CANDIDATES

Secretary Colman Says None Have Put in Applications and He has No Idea of the Outcome

A special meeting of the police and fire commission will be called next week, to elect a successor to Hugh H. Byrne, chief of the police department, who died Monday. The call has not yet been issued, but will be on the return of G. M. Woodard, president of the commission, who is in Madison, Wis., appearing before the supreme court.

No applicants for the position of head of the police department have presented their applications to Lucius Colman, secretary of the commission. The secretary will receive all applications and present them to the board.

Thus far the commission has had no official discussion of the death of Chief Byrne, and the vacancy created by his death. Members of the commission are loath to say anything, preferring to wait until the final choice is made.

"In all probability a special meeting of the commission will be held some time next week, to fill the vacancy in the police department, caused by the death of Chief Byrne," said Secretary Colman today. "The call for this meeting has not been issued, and I, as secretary, will be informed immediately upon its issuance."

"I have received no applications for the position, though I will receive all."

"Thus far nothing has been done H. Byrne, chief of the police department, who died Monday. The call has not yet been issued, but will be on the return of G. M. Woodard, president of the commission, who is in Madison, Wis., appearing before the supreme court."

"I know of no one who might succeed Chief Byrne."

The members of the police and fire commission are:
President—G. M. Woodard.
Secretary—Lucius Colman.
Members—John Dengler, John Langdon, and William Torrance.

LADIES MAKE GOOD SCORES

The Ladies' Bowling league of the city rolled their second series of games this morning and showed a great improvement over their previous records. Mrs. Lester Keene rolled the highest score of the morning, getting 139 in one of the games. Mrs. Frank Williams was second, getting 133 pins in the last game and getting an average of 120 for the three games, which is considered an excellent record. The ladies have issued a challenge to any five ladies in the city to roll a match series of three games. The scores are as follows:

	1st	2nd	3d	T'l	Avg.
Mrs. Judd	72	50	93	215	72
Mrs. Keene	82	128	139	349	116
Mrs. Hunt	93	52	74	219	73
Mrs. Will's	101	127	133	361	120
Miss Will's	78	64	69	211	70

DID BURGLAR LIE TO SAVE HIS PAL?

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—After he had been convicted together with John Lewis, of the burglary of a store in Rockdale, near this city, Charles Martin today went on the witness stand and confessed that he alone committed the crime and that Lewis had nothing to do with it. Previously both men had fought conviction with every legal method known. This unexpected turn caused the postponement of sentence and may result in a new trial of both. The state doubts the truth of Martin's story.

DOGS ARE BAD, NO BEAR FOR TEDDY

STAMBOUL, Miss., Oct. 17.—Jake and Ralph Osborne and pack of hounds joined the Roosevelt hunting party here today. Some say that Roosevelt's failure to bag any bear is due to the bad behavior of the dogs, and others say that there are too many in the party.

STEEPLEJACK CAPELLE ON THE SINGER BUILDING FLAGSTAFF, OVER SEVEN HUNDRED FEET ABOVE BROADWAY, NEW YORK.

LOWER Broadway, New York, enjoyed a sensation the other day when Ernest Capelle, a steeplejack, climbed the flagpole of a new skyscraper, the Singer building. The flagstaff at the peak is 703 feet above the level of the street and is sixty-two feet above the apex of the giant tower that rises high above all other buildings of the city. Perched upon it, with the city, the country, and the ocean spread out before him until distance was lost in a haze, Capelle affixed a golden ball to the peak.

WAR AS NECESSARY

SO DECLARES GOVERNOR J. O.
DAVIDSON TODAY

UNVEIL BADGER MONUMENT

Ceremonies Take Place at Andersonville, Ga., and Governor Makes Interesting Address

ANDERSONVILLE, Ga., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—At the dedication this afternoon of the Wisconsin $11,000 monument on the site of the old prison pen where 12,000 union soldiers died from disease and starvation during the civil war, Gov. Davidson of Wisconsin declared that "the war was as necessary as it was inevitable."

This is construed here that the governor virtually takes issue with Dr. Ulrich B. Phillips of Georgia, now connected with the state university of Wisconsin, who it is understood is writing a book to prove that, without the war, economic conditions would have solved the slavery problem.

War Was Necessary.
In presenting the monument designed by Architect A. Fink of Milwaukee to the National Women's Relief Corps, the governor declared: "War is indeed a cruel legislator. In its name are committed deeds which cause name to stagger and civilization to recoil upon itself."

After the cenotaph had been accepted by the national organization, Col. Levi H. Bancroft of Richland Center, Wis., delivered a long historical address lauding the bravery of the union soldiers. The complete address of Gov. Davidson follows:

"Wisconsin bends its head in sorrow today," said the governor. "The recollections of the history here enacted, which occasions our presence with you, has enshrouded our minds with sadness mingled with silent admiration. Standing upon the site of the famous Andersonville prison—sacred ground to all America, I give voice to the state's deepest consciousness of the sacrifices, the endurance and the patriotic devotion of her soldier prisoners to principles to which they had dedicated their lives. As an evidence of the sincere appreciation

PET MAGILL LOVED

NEW WIFE WEEPS ON STAND

Magill Tells Story of Night of Death and Finding of Wife's Body
in the Morning.

DECATUR, Ill., Oct. 17.—Fay Graham Magill, charged with complicity in the murder of her husband's first wife, wept bitterly in today's session of the trial, while her attorney, George Ingham, reading a letter supposed to have been written to her by the first Mrs. Magill, referred to the scandal started against Fay by relatives of Magill. Magill later took the stand. He said he never heard his first wife tell of using chloroform to kill dogs, and that she "loved Fay Graham."

Magill said: "On the night of Mrs. Magill's death we retired at 11 o'clock. I woke at 6 o'clock the next morning. Pet was missing. I found her in a bedroom filled with chloroform fumes. I opened the window and jerked the blanket from Pet's face. She was dead."

This corroborates the testimony of Marguerite, Magill's daughter.

HARRIMAN SAYS COMMISSION MAKES RAILROAD SICK

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—Harriman today in an interview appealed to the newspapers, magazines and press associations to hold a meeting to devise some just method of regulation for railroads and to influence the interstate commission to give the roads fair play. He declares some of the decisions of the commission against the roads "made the stomachs of railroad men sick," and said that the roads can't get justice because the public mind is agitated.

FEAR TWO BILLION

GREAT DEMANDS WILL BE MADE

CAN NOT KEEP IT DOWN

Worry of Politicians Results From New Navy Needs and Great Growth of Expenditures

Washington Bureau of The La Crosse Tribune.
WASHINGTON, D. C., Oct. 17.
(By J. C. Welliver.)

Looming up bigger and more troublesome than ever before, the problem of how to hold down appropriations and keep them commensurate with the revenues and at the same time satisfy the rapidly growing demands for government expenditures, is giving the republican leaders of house and senate no end of worry and apprehension. It is coming to be the most vexing question with which congress has to deal. It has been serious enough with preceding congresses, but all indications are the sixtieth congress, which will begin its first and long session the first Monday in December, will find itself particularly sorely beset.

On the one hand, there will be a fiercer and more insistent clamor for appropriations and authorizations than ever assailed any other congress; on the other, will be the fact that appropriations have already reached a vast aggregate, nearly to the limit of the country's revenues on the basis of present laws and more revenue will have to be raised or a deficit incurred if the outlay is to keep on swelling. There is the further important fact that a presidential and congressional election is approaching and it might prove embarrassing to the republican party if the democrats kept the issue of extravagance to the front.

"Where is it going to end? Is the question that the men who are responsible in the appropriation of money by congress are asking.

The total appropriations made by the second or last session of the Fifty-ninth congress amounted to $919,948,679, including the permanent annual appropriations. This

FIGHT FOR CONTROL OF I. C. PROLONGED BY ADJOURNMENT

PROXY COMMITTEE IS FLOODED WITH CONFLICTING DEALS

MEET AT 3 O'CLOCK TODAY

Fish Wins Small Point, But Harriman Is Picked to Win
the Fight

CHICAGO, Ill., Oct. 17.—Realizing that the deadlock in the committee appointed to examine the proxies is hopeless, the stockholders' meeting which will decide the bitter fight between Fish and Harriman for control of the Illinois Central, was at 9 o'clock this morning postponed until 3 o'clock this afternoon. Harriman suggested all the questionable proxies be thrown out, but Fish objected hotly to this.

Each Side Claims Victory.

Each side left the scene of action last evening boasting that victory was within its grasp. The general belief among the on-lookers, however, was that Harriman has the whip hand and will be enabled to drive through his program to oust Fish and name the four new directors. On the other hand, the Fish faction, if it cannot win, aims to create a deadlock that will be determined only by a court decision on the disputed Union Pacific and Mutual Life stock.

The nearest approach to an open rupture between the contending factions occurred in the directors' meeting which preceded the meeting of the stockholders. The lie was at: but passed between Mr. Fish and Charles A. Peabody and for a moment a personal encounter seemed imminent. Then Mr. Fish in the same meeting had a hot fight with hopeless, the stockholders' meeting which will decide the bitter fight between Fish and Harriman for control of the Illinois Central.

Struggle with Mass of Proxies.

After the preliminaries of the opening of the stockholders' meeting, the scene of the actual contest was transferred to the committee on proxies, consisting of Lewis C. Fritch, representing Harriman; Charles H. Wenman, representing Fish; and E. S. Conway, designated by Judge Ball and agreed to by both factions as the nonpartisan umpire of fair play. In a little room off the assembly hall in the Park row station this committee struggled all the afternoon and evening to bring order out of the vast mass of original duplicate, and, in many instances, triplicate proxies with which it was inundated.

Even while the judges of credentials labored, the silent, stealthy battle for advantage raged all around. Fish's lieutenants were everywhere seeking revocations of proxies held by the Harriman crowd. They succeeded in bringing in a number, just how many they would not say. Harriman scouts came and went in cabs, and kept the telephone wires sizzling with negotiations for revocations of proxies held by the Fish crowd.

Large Batch for Harriman.

Late in the afternoon William Nelson Cromwell hurried before the committee with three large revocations which he said made Harriman's victory safe.

At a late hour the indications were that this sort of warfare would be waged before the committee right up to the hour of its report. It was said that there were over 20,000 duplicate or otherwise contested proxies before the committee, while it is estimated that 50,000 votes have changed sides within the last few days. The task of the judges is to determine the proxies of latest date and the authenticity of those questioned by either faction. The magnitude of this undertaking is so great that it may require two more days to complete the tabulation.

FLY BOLLOONS TODAY

TAX COMMISSION MAKES ITS REPORT

STATEMENT INDICATES THAT CORPORATIONS NOW PAY

LA CROSSE CO. UP MILLION

Real Estate Values Here Advance—County Will Pay $21,444 to State School Fund.

(By Fred L. Holmes.)

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The state tax commission today made public the figures of the annual assessment. The report shows that all the taxable property in the state is assessed at $2,556,300,000, an increase of $131,500,000 over last year. The percentage of increase was greater in the case of real than of personal property, and much of the advance is due to the higher assessment of railroad and other corporate properties.

The total valuation of all La Crosse county property is $35,009,883, an increase of about a million. Of this $24,446,479 is real estate, and $10,563,407 is personal property.

The only purpose of the present assessment is to apportion the amounts to be paid by the various counties into the state school funds. La Crosse county this year will pay as follows:

Interest on state debts	$ 2,444
State high schools	2,000
State graded schools	2,000
State university	9,000
State normals	4,000
State common schools	20,000

Total $39,444

The large advance over valuations a year ago was said to be due to the more businesslike and equitable appraisal of property. The comparison between the valuations of 1906 and 1907 shows an increase of $131,500,000 over last year. The percentage of increase was as follows:

1906	$2,124,300,000
1907	2,556,300,000
Increase	131,500,000
Real estate increase	119,122,957
Personal property	22,377,043

La Crosse County Appraisal.

Total property:

1906	$34,062,491
1907	$35,009,883

Total increase $ 947,392

Real estate:

1906	$23,567,387
1907	24,446,479

Increase $ 879,092

Personal property:

1906	$10,495,104
1907	10,563,407

Increase $ 68,303

AMERICAN ASS'N. TO QUIT MAJORS

WILL PASS UP THE AGREEMENT IT IS SAID

PLAN TO ENTER CHICAGO

Tired of Being Kept Out of the Big Game, Association Will Have Teams in Largest Cities

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—

Rumors of a break between the American association and the American and National leagues, which have been circulating for over a year past, gradually are assuming definite form, and affairs now are said to be in such shape that open hostilities may be declared within the next few months. The substance of the stories is to the effect that the American association is planning to invade Chicago, establish a team on the north side of the Windy city, and also place a club in Buffalo, N. Y., and possibly in Pittsburgh, Pa. If such a plan materializes it would mean that the American association will drop its membership in the national agreement, and become, in effect, an outlaw organization, as that term now is understood.

Western League Will Help. Officials of the association who are said to be backing the movement to break with the major leagues, understand fully the extent of the baseball war that will follow, and it is said they have laid their plans carefully to insure the success of the contemplated reorganization. To this end, it is understood, that the co-operation of the leading officials of the Western league has been secured, and that body will stick by the association in the prospective fight.

Should the plan develop, it is said that the franchise of the St. Paul club will be transferred to Chicago, and the franchises of one or two other association clubs will be switched, providing it is determined to put clubs in Buffalo and Pittsburgh. Just what other association teams will be affected it is impossible to state at this time.

BADGER LEAGUER IS DRAFTED

George Brookings, third baseman for the Green Bay team the second season in the Wisconsin state league, released early this season to Houghton in the Northern league, has been drafted by Indianapolis of the American association. While at Houghton, Brookings played shortstop and put up a phenomenal game.

Major league scouts believed the dark skinned boy will prove a wonder. While at Houghton his batting attracted attention, as he was one of the best hitters on the team. Brookings will report to Indianapolis with several youngsters early in the spring.

WALTER MUELLER HERE FOR WINTER

Walter Mueller, son of Emil Y. Mueller, manager of the G. Heileman Brewing company, a pitcher in the eastern league with the Newark and Baltimore clubs, has returned to the city to spend the winter with his parents. Mueller made a good record in the east as a pitcher during the summer, having several exceptional games to his credit. He has accepted a position with the Heileman company and will remain here until spring.

BOSTON FIGHTER OUTPOINTS BARRY

BOSTON, Mass., Oct. 17.—Sam Langford showed himself the superior of Dave Barry in their ten-round go here. From the tap of the gong Langford set a fast pace and puzzled Barry all the way.

Langford is a juvenile, compared with Barry, in experience, but his cleverness was more than a match for his opponent.

No decision on the contest was rendered.

HIGHBALL TAKES M'DOWELL STAKE

RICH PURSE FOR CRACK GEERS' GELDING YESTERDAY

HELEN HALE CLIPS A MARK

Goes in 2:13 1/4, Fastest Mile Ever Trotted in a Race in Kentucky by a Filly

LEXINGTON, Ky., Oct. 17.—Highball annexed to his list of visitors for this year the McDowell stake for 2:09 trotters in easy fashion here. Much disappointment was experienced because Lillian R. did not start, as it was generally conceded that she is the only horse here in Highball's class, except Sonoma Girl, and Wilkes Heart, which were not eligible to the race.

The Lexington stake for 2 year olds was won by Benvolo, after Helen Hale had trotted the first heat of the race in 2:13 1/4, the fastest mile ever trotted in a race by a filly.

Lady Maud C. and Hedgewood Boy, sister and brother, had the unique distinction of winning the third race (2:10 pace) and the fourth race (2:07 pace) in the most exciting finishes of the meeting. Summaries:

DEMURE WINS BIG HANDICAP STAKES

LONDON, Oct. 17.—Newmarket the Cesarewitch stakes, a handicap, 25 sovereigns each, with 5,000 sovereigns added, for 3 year olds and upward, two miles and a quarter was won by Demure. White Knight was second and Wuffy third. Thirteen horses ran.

GATES AND SON TO OPEN BULL CAMPAIGN

NEW YORK, Oct. 17.—On excellent authority it has been learned that J. W. Gates and his son, Charles G., who went to France last summer with the expressed intention of remaining there a year and a half, will be in this city and at work in two weeks.

The same authority expresses the belief that the notable pair are coming back rampant bulls, and that they will at once twist the bear's tail.

Their earliest attentions, it is said, will be devoted to sundry cheap stocks, plunging on them with the old vim that characterized their operations in the old days.

URNS SIPHONS INTO COINS

CHICAGO, Oct. 17.—An illicit mint at Gary, Ind., at which the tops of seltzer siphons were being converted into spurious quarters, nickels, and dimes, was raided last evening and the owner of the mint, Andrew Birkus, was locked up. Birkus admitted that his industry, in the last year, had netted him $800, with which he had paid a long standing debt. He ground the tops of large bottles into quarters and made nickels and dimes of the smaller tops.

HUBBY GOES, WOMAN PREPARED TO DIE

WATERLOO, Ia., Oct. 17.—Because her husband wished to spend the evening downtown, Mrs. William Bahr swallowed an ounce of carbolic acid in an attempt to end her life.

Mrs. Bahr is 25 years of age and usually of a cheerful disposition. She was to entertain company and wished her husband to assist, but he refused.

When the friends arrived they found Mrs. Bahr unconscious on the floor. Medical attention was given her, and it is thought she will survive.

She left a note addressed to her husband, telling him she was ridding him of her company so he could marry some other woman.

WOMEN INSPECTORS LOCKED IN SCHOOL

BARABOO, Wis., Oct. 17.—When City Superintendent G. W. Gehrand and the high school janitor left the new building at 6 o'clock in the evening, feeling that they had done a good day's work and that the city's interests would best be served by securely locking every way of ingress or egress, they little knew that eight prominent society women of Baraboo, on their way home from a "kaffeeklatsch," were "inspecting" the structure. The supper hour passed and the inspection tour was ended. Then the women found they were prisoners. After much difficulty, a window was unlocked and under cover of night, they made their escape.

WOMAN IS BURNED IN GASOLINE EXPLOSION

NEW ULM, Minn., Oct. 17.—Mrs. A. J. Olin received painful burns while cleaning a gasoline stove at her home in Franklin. She was pouring a fresh supply from a five-gallon can, which was partly filled, into a small vessel, when the fluid became ignited by coming in contact with a burning stove, causing an explosion and setting fire to the dress of Mrs. Olin. Her hair was singed and her face, hands and other parts of the body were severely burned. She ran outdoors, and with the assistance of neighbors her burning clothing was smothered.

IDENTIFY DEAD MEN

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Oct. 17.—The man who was murdered at Altoona last week had been identified as William Murray, who two days previous to his being murdered had come down from Rice Lake, where he had worked in the mill of the Rice Lake Lumber company. When he left there he had about $100 in his possession.

WAUSAU, Wis., Oct. 17.—The tramp shot and killed a week ago near Bushman station by Richard Beyreis, has been identified as Geo. Shields of Manitowoc. Shields was under sentence for burglary and broke jail at Medford a few days previous to being killed. The coroner's jury exonerated Beyreis from all blame in the death, as the tramp had brandished a razor and threatened him.

ECZEMA SKIN DEEP—NOT IN THE BLOOD

Skin Diseases Can Be Cured Only By Treating the Skin.

It is useless to try to cure skin disease by pouring vile, poisonous drugs into the stomach—this has been proved by years of study and experimenting by the world's greatest scientists and specialists in cutaneous diseases.

When it was proved that skin disease was in the skin only and not in the blood, attention was immediately given to discover a remedy that would cure the disease by external application. Years were spent in study and experimenting, but finally Dr. Decatur D. Dennis, a skin specialist, of wide reputation, compounded a remedy consisting of purely vegetable ingredients and as clean and pleasant to use as pure water.

This instantly gave relief and quickly cured the worst cases of skin disease. This remarkable remedy is called D. D. D. Prescribable and the secret of its success is that it gets at the seat of the trouble, immediately killing the germs that cause the disease, and leaves the skin soft and clean, the disease completely cured.

"I had eczema and tried (3) doctors for (6) months," writes F. R. Tesar, banker and city collector of Hopkinson, Ia. "They did me no good. I wrote for a sample bottle of D. D. D. and started to use it. My face and mustache were all full of the disease. The sample did me good and I wrote for a dollar bottle, and now my face is smooth as a baby's. My head was full of dandruff and always itched, my hair was coming out but has stopped now. This has all disappeared and I feel 20 years younger. I would not be afraid to guarantee D. D. D. to cure eczema and dandruff in the worst stages. I would also advise that all barbers tell their customers who have dandruff to send at once for a dollar bottle of D. D. D. and get cured."

GRAVEYARD.

"Sumner," Washington correspondent of the Chicago Record-Herald has discovered that "there is a chance"
that Senator La Follette may "again" have to "fight for admission to the national republican convention."

"Sumner" is Sumner Curtis, who was "Gil" Vanderhook's side-partner in the business of "roasting" La Follette in the Sentinel during all those campaigns in which Charley Pfister was getting his first, second and third degree. The establishment of the identity of "Sumner" is an immense help in understanding what he says about the senior senator.

It begins with the usual "Incidental to the gathering of republican leaders here next week," and then it runs like a political letter from the Eleventh Floor league to the syndicate of anti-La Follette newspapers.
But even "Sumner," who must have acquired the habit, does not seem to feel that, were it left to the people, there would be any doubt about the selection of La Follette as delegate. He says it's this way:

"Unless the executive committee of the national committee, which will issue the call for the 1908 convention after the time and place have been set for the full committee, break all precedents the call will provide specifically for the election of delegates at large from all the states and territories by conventions, taking no cognizance of the direct primary system prevailing in Wisconsin under which La Follette's friends would expect him to be elected a delegate at large from the Badger
state and to head the Wisconsin delegation."

"There is a feeling that while La Follette might be certain to pull down one of the four delegations-at-large at a direct primary, he might fall by the wayside through the holding of a party convention, which might choose a complete delegation favorable to some other person as a candidate for president and instruct the members accordingly. It will be recalled that three years ago the factional split in Wisconsin resulted in dual state conventions and the election of rival delegations to the national convention at Chicago. The republican national committee in making up the temporary roll of the national convention threw out the La Follette delegates and unanimously seated the stalwart delegation, headed by Senator Spooner."

"The national committee of today is no more inclined to idolize La Follette than was the case in 1904, when he practically was without a friend in the whole outfit."

"The contingencies that may arise
in view of the fact that certain members of the national committee are known to favor strict adherence to the old form of call for the national convention are manifold. La Follette and his friends might go ahead with their primary, believing the result would be accepted by the national convention as the will of the republican organization in Wisconsin. The other republican element in the state might call a convention and elect delegates in strict conformity with the call for the national convention. Then it would be up to the national committee to pass upon the credentials of the two sets of delegates, and it is more than probable —practically certain—that the decision would seat the set chosen as prescribed by the committee.
"If both elements accepted the

MEN OF NOTE

Edmund Clarence Stedman

Edmund Clarence Stedman, the poet and literary critic, was born at Hartford, Conn., on October 8th, 1833. He graduated from Yale university in 1853 and shortly afterwards decided to take up journalism as his profession. He went to New York in 1859 and was put on the staff of the Tribune. When the Civil war broke out Mr. Stedman became the war correspondent of the New York World and performed this important duty from 1861 until 1869.
Returning to New York he became a member of the stock exchange in 1869 and retained his membership in this body until 1900. His home is at Lawrence Park, Bronxville, N.
Y. He has written many poems and critical articles.

literal construction of a call made as indicated there would be the merriest kind of a fight for control between those wanting La Follette for president and those believing that Wisconsin would do better to support some candidate outside the state who stands a better show of getting the nomination.

"A state convention might lead to the same situation as was presented in 1904, with a bolt or something of the kind and the election of two sets of delegates, the same as preceded the national convention at Chicago.
If prejudice cut any figure with such a contest launched, the La Follette side would get the smallest consideration."

Well, "Sumner" adds that the "republican leaders," who are to
"meet here" would, if they could, drive Senator La Follette out of the party. Of course they can't, any more than they can drive Roosevelt out of the party, which they "would if they could." It seems that even now, after wearing the "23" label for years, there sometimes comes to these "leaders" the ghost of a glimmer of a dead hope that through some machine or convention the desires of the majority of Wisconsin republicans will be thwarted and the old outfit of Madison, "rumpers" will be permitted to send an anything-to-down-Bob representative of the corporations to the national convention.

The supreme court has given Prosecutor McGovern, of Milwaukee, a shaking up because it thinks he goes beyond the "beaten paths" to secure the conviction of alleged city and county "graters." It must be conceded, however, that the "beaten paths" in Milwaukee permitted
"graft" to flourish undisturbed before the election of Mr. McGovern.

The responsibility for the terrible accident in the Dupont powder mill, admittedly due to carelessness,
should be fixed, and there should follow an explosion of justice properly damaging to the culprit.

The "vindication" of the Magills is evidence of the efficacy of the "reasonable doubt."

MUST WE CHANGE GUNS?

(Brooklyn Eagle.)

The experiences of gun inventors
during the last decade have shown that, as compared with the 12-inch gun, the advantages are all with the 12-inch. The latter does practically as much damage as the larger gun,
it lasts longer, it occupies less room in the turrets and it costs less to fire. Even for coast defense the 12-inch gun has been abandoned, nothing heavier than the 12-inch being used in any of our fortifications, although Sandy Hook possesses one 16-inch gun for which congress has never provided money enough to buy a suitable carriage. The new English 13.5-inch gun indicates, therefore, a revolutionary abandonment of a principle that both gun and armor-makers had considered settled—the principle that the limit of effective fire had been reached in the 12-inch rifle. Now that the pendulum has been set swinging in the opposite direction, we may yet have to discard all of our coast and naval batteries and build heavier ones to take their places. The pace set by British construction is very costly to the world at large, but if experiments prove it to be justified, it will be generally followed and, where possible, excelled.

Watery.
"Looks like rain today," said the milkman, as he poured the customary quart from the can to the pitcher.
"It always does," replied the housewife, compressing her lips with cold significance.
Stifling an oath, he took up his liquid burden and departed heavily.

SPOTLIGHTS

"Ma's New Husband."

In "Ma's New Husband," which comes to the La Crosse theatre this evening, playgoers are promised a farfetched musical treat of the merriest kind. It has scored heavily in other cities in which it has been played, from all accounts, and has proved a vogue for all who crave entertainment of a light, clean, snappy and lively type. Its comicallities are said to be irresistible and the situations mirthful, while the music and special numbers have been received with popular acclaim.

No less than 16 song hits, everyone of them new and specially written for the piece, are on the program.
These are varied in theme and include solos, duets, quartettes and sex-tettes. They are deftly introduced during the action of the piece and never divert the mind from the thread of the story.

The plot involves the characters in a laughable maze of seemingly in-extricable confusion, but the most difficult entanglements and obstacles are usually overcome by quick wit and rapid fire action, although at times they are unforeseen happenings which make the situation still more excruciating and the fun all the more delicious.

"Ma's New Husband" owes its title to a man who tries to pass himself off as the son of the woman he has promised to marry. She and he are dead broke, and the successful carrying out of the scheme means a comfortable home with a rich relative of her's until fortune is kinder.
Other guests share the hospitality of their host at the same time, and this leads to a series of rapidly succeeding misunderstandings and situations that keep the audience in a roar until the denouement is reached.

Managers Scott and Raynor, who direct the performances, have received flattering commendation from the press of other cities for the excel-ence of their company and the stage effects.

"His Last Dollar."

"His Last Dollar," the stirring drama in which David Higgins has starred so successfully the past four years, will be presented at the La

Emma Salvador with David Higgins in "His Last Dollar," La Crosse Theatre, Sunday.

Crosse theatre, Sunday, Oct. 20 by the same capable company which has characterized its success. This is one of the best popular priced dramas ever seen at the theatre and is built along lines that appeal strongly to the emotions. The feature of the play is the great Futurity race scene in the fourth act.

The Spider's Web.

"The Spider's Web," the new play
in which Miss Sarah Truax is being starred this season by John Cort, is a striking drama by John Hutchins, which has already evoked widespread comment and which seems destined to become the most talked of piece of the year before the end of the current season.

The central idea is daring and audacious in the extreme. Given a young girl who idolizes her mother, who loves her with an affection even beyond the normal instinctive love of offspring for progenitor. Equip her with a puritanical conscience, which permits of no palliation for an offense once committed, which reckons not with what they call "extenuating circumstances" in the law courts. Show her unrelenting sense of right and wrong in her condemnation of a school girl friend and companion who has trusted because she loved and who has strayed for a moment into the alluring paths which lead from the proverbial straight and narrow way. Then reveal to her the fact that her mother in the dim ves-terdays of long ago has tripped the same measure once, watch her groping in a misty whirl of doubts and fears, and see her finally solve the problem in a way that brings peace of mind for all concerned and you have a play of uncommon strength and power of compelling sincerity
and of striking effectiveness.

The main story is relieved ever and anon by flashes of delightful comedy and touches of real humor.
The characterization throughout is exceptionally good. The characters are not sketched in. They are painted in the colors of life. They are vital humans with pulsing blood of a ruddy hue flowing through their veins, not namby-pamby puppets created solely to adorn a tale.

As Claudia Deering, the central
has achieved a veritable triumph. It is a role which calls for rare sympathy and imaginative insight, for the ability to nounce a change from the grave to the gay and vice versa with ease and fluency. In the intense emotional scenes Miss Truax rings true at all times and rises with sure command and wonderful skill to almost tragic heights. It is a piece of

FASHION HINTS

(By May Manton.)

5801 Girl's Party Frock,
6 to 12 years.

Little girls' party dresses are apt to be fascinating creations for they are made of the prettiest flimsiest materials in all sorts of light and dainty colorings. Here is one that is available for chiffon, for crepe de China, for silk voile, and for light colored wool voile and cashmere,
and also for some of the simpler silks and the fine lawn that always is so dainty. It is graceful and altogether childish and charming, while it is in the height of style, including all the latest features of fashion, consequently, it leaves little to be desired. It is the half-low neck that is so pretty worn by little girls, and there are the elbow sleeves that are always becoming, while the ruf-les give needed breadth to undeveloped figures. In this case the material is rose colored silk voile with trimming of frills made of gauze ribbon of the same shade.

White, pale blue, and all light colorings are in style, however,
the frills can be of lace, or of heavier ribbon, or of the material, as liked. Again, if something simpler is desired, they could be omitted altogether and the tucks simply stitched, as shown in the back view. Made in this way the little frock would be very charming if the material were fine Persian lawn, and the hems and tucks hemstitched or sewed by hand.

The dress is made with waist and skirt. The waist is plain across the shoulders and gathered at the belt.
The ruffles that give the berth effect are arranged over it and over the sleeves and its lower edge is joined to the belt. The skirt is simply straight, finished with hem and tucks, and is gathered at its upper edge.

The quantity of material required for the medium size (10 years) is 6 1/2 yards 27, 5 1/4 yards 32, or 3 1/2 yards 44 inches wide with 20 yards of ribbon for the frills and bows, to trim as illustrated.

The pattern 5801 is cut in sizes for girls of 6, 8, 10 and 12 years of age and will be mailed to any address by the Fashion Department of this paper on receipt of ten cents.
(If in haste send an additional two cent stamp for letter postage which insures more prompt delivery.)

CROOKED FINANCE.

(New York World.)

Both Standard Oil and Metropolitan officials have testified to destroying records, but that is merely a routine precaution such as any ignorant criminal might adopt. Around the Metropolitan headquarters it has been the established practice to hand out large sums of money for mysterious use by persons with unreliable memories. But accelerating public opinions and wire-pulling in Albany ga a employa, nt chiefly to contemptible politicians and lawyers. The higher financiers, however, as directors, bought franchises and railway lines at one price and unloaded them on the stockholders
at ten times their cost; issued bonds for electric roads that were not built,
and carried on a private banking business on the inside.

In justice to the Standard Oil people it should be said that in their quiet way they also showed considerable enterprise. One payment of $2, 607,852 in 1899 is followed by similar payments amounting to $20,000, 000 in six years to a purchasing agent who denies that he knows anything about these cash entries for "loans." The money seems to have "escaped," as that eminent legal adviser Paul Cravath would say if it had been a Metropolitan transaction.

So far between $30,000,000 and $40,000,000 of the Metropolitan stockholders' money has disappeared. Up to date the Standard Oil's score stands a little lower, but it is making rapid progress as the government's investigation proceeds. It is a close race between the Ryan and the Rockefeller forces, and until one side or the other breaks into jail it would be unfair to say to which belongs the victor's palm.

Though all the trees are bare, love,

acting of which any actress on any

The play contains a number of parts of importance and vital concern. These are in the hands of a company of distinguished artists.
The piece has been staged with great magnificence and the production is complete to even the smallest detail.

GIANT'S
STRENGTH

BY BASIL KING

CHAPTER IX.

"He'll never be the same again.
Alice," Marah Winship said, complainingly. "You've never seen any one more changed than he, since the first day he began to paint her."

"I shouldn't bother about that,"
Lady Alice returned, in her bluff, hearty way, "so long as the change is for the better."

"But is it?"

"Certainly, if you can judge from his work. That picture is a man's work, not a boy's. It's got the two things he's lacked hitherto—inspiration and authority. He's always had drawing and color. I give you my word, Marah, I'm astonished, perfectly astonished—I, who looked for big things from him. That woman is Paula Trafford as surely as Rembrandt's 'Old Lady' in Amsterdam is Elizabeth Bas."

If it had only been any one else in the world, rather than a Trafford!"
"I call that stuff and nonsense,
and flying in the face of Providence.
The boy's business is to paint pretty women, and where could he have found a better subject? You'd feel the same about any one else who had good looks enough to give him pleasure in putting them on canvas. Oh, yes, I know all about the past; but,
good gracious, Marah, you're not a Corsican, to carry on a vendetta from generation to generation. I should say that, if they've fallen in love with each other, it would be uncommonly rare poetic justice for them to make a match of it."

"You didn't want your own brother to marry her."

"That's a different thing. Ludov-ic, poor lad, came into the world
bound hand and foot with duties,
and with a whole load of family traditions crushing him down. He can't marry the first pretty face he takes a fancy to. He's got to keep in the picture, so to speak. There's nothing more incongruous, in my opinion, than an English duke with a rich American duchess. It's out of drawing and off the background. It leaps at you from the frame. Of course, if Ludovic had done it, I could have lived through it and made the best of it, just as I should do if he were to dismantle the beautiful Louis Seize drawing-room at Edinbridge and refurnished it from Maple's; but I shouldn't like it."

"We have our family pride as well as you," Marah observed, with sharp eyes snapping. "Until we were driven out, our own family had lived on the same land in New Hampshire for nearly three hundred years."

"Oh, my dear, America wasn't discovered as long ago as that, and even if it had been, the two things are not the same at all. They're as different as a Teniers and a Raphael. Mind you, a Teniers is just as good as a Raphael; but it's quite another genre, and you mustn't mix them. As for your brother, I say again, that if they can make a match of it you ought to take it as the special intervention of Providence, and a happy way out of the coil."

They sat in the long studio before Winship's unfinished portrait. Lady Alice, in her black cloth gown, Tyrolese hat, and stout leather boots, was an excellent type of the Englishwoman who is so sure of her means and position that she can dress as she pleases. Above the two women, Paula Trafford sat as if enthroned.
She had been painted much as Win-ship had suggested in the first moment of inspiration—in diaphanous black over something green, with a diamond ornament, like a tiara, shining in her hair. From a chiseled gold coffer, standing on a small ma-laccate table beside her, she was drawing a string of pearls, and her eyes were turned towards the spectator. Through an opening between two columns the vaguely suggested sunset was fading out in tints of green and gold and black.

"She'll have the money," Lady Alice continued, unfolding the plan,
"and he'll have the fame. The one will not be better dowered than the other. This bit of work means that he is going up to the gate of the Temple with a good, sharp rap.
They'll let him in quickly enough this time. It's marvellous how he's managed so much detail with such simplicity. And yet," she went on,
in her summary, "nothing takes your attention away from the girl herself.
He's caught the meaning of her face with nothing short of power. I've seen her look just like that—in fact,
it's her characteristic expression.
Don't you notice it, Marah?"

"I can see it's very well painted."
"Then it's a pity you can't see more. That rather pathetic kind of loveliness is unusual in itself, but when you add her wondering, questioning expression you make it positively significant. It's tremendously modern, too. You could never confound this girl with the soft-eyed, shameless beauties of the Lely school,
or with the bedrugged and befuddled ladies of Sir Joshua. Here you've got not only a pretty woman, but a human soul. Any one might think that, with her puzzled, ranging gaze, she was asking the eternal 'What?'
and 'Why?' of earthly existence."

The grating of a latch-key in the lock of the door cut short. Lady Alice's observations, and Winship himself entered. During the greetings that followed, Marah, murmuring something about seeing to her mother, slipped from the room. Win-ship asked Lady Alice many questions: When had she come? Where was she staying? How long was she to remain? He showed his surprise and pleasure at seeing her.

"I'm especially glad on account of that," he said, with a gesture towards the portrait, when they had finished the first preliminary topics of meeting. "How do you like it? Sit down there—just there—that's the best light. Now tell me what you think of it. There's no one whose opinion I'd rather have than yours.

Is it she? That's the thing I care for most. You know her better than I do?"

"And yet you seem to know her pretty well."

"I do. I divine her."

"It's a very pleasant form of speculation, isn't it? You've painted with a good deal of enthusiasm. I can see that."

"It takes enthusiasm to transfer a living personality to the canvas," he said, evasively. "You can paint clothes and features by mere skill;
but it's only sympathy with your subject that will put the whole character into a single look."

"And you find that she inspires it?—the sympathy you speak of?"

"If she didn't her situation would."

"You mean—"

"I mean that for me she belongs to the group of women overwhelmed by the fatality of circumstances, the representative circumstances of their time. Each age has its own types, which often become its own victims.
In one age it may be an Iphigenia, in another a Lady Jane Grey, and in another a Madame Royale. They are simple women—simple girls—without inborn greatness of any kind—

"My good man, do you mean to say that Paula Trafford is threatened by some overhanging doom?"

"No, I do not. I say only that she is one of the few who focus into themselves the results of a great industrial country and of a great industrial era. There she sits as I see her," he went on, pointing over Lady Alice's shoulder, "the type and the victim of a commercial age and a commercial people. All the rights and wrongs of industry and finance are forced into her hands—their honest gains, their pitiless competitions, their brutal robberies, their sordid trickeries, and their moral assassinations. She sums them up and represents them."

It does not seem to matter

THE NON-MORAL CORPORATION.

(The Atlantic.)

The corporation cannot mend itself. More and more it is impersonal and non-moral. More and more the far-away manager is rated as a profit conveyor, and the conduit with the bigger flow is always preferred.
It has become a machine, and Mammon is its master. Reform, therefore, will not come from the inside.
Those who supply the capital cannot mold it to their better will. But they can change its spirit if they will join with their fellow-citizens in restraining the corporation by public opinion and statute. If the reaction of organized society upon the Gratgrind type of manager is so severe that he cannot make so much money for his stockholders as a more reasonable and representative type,
he will give way to the better man,
and one cause of the needless alienation of classes will be removed.

The man who has no time for an occasional laugh needs a vacation.

What Others Neglect.

Great men are neither born nor made.
They make themselves.
When Napoleon, Dowie, Hugo or George Ade were born they were equipped with no more in the way of knowledge or ability than any other infant.

They learned from the knowledge already in the world the same as every other infant. They grew and

VISIT STOVE WORKS AND RUBBER MILLS

NORTH SIDE

SEE RUBBERS MANUFACTURED

Manager Complains of Reasons He Cannot Enlarge Plant—Summit
Factory Also Inspected

The members of the North Side Progressive league held their second visiting day yesterday afternoon and visited two more of the industries of the North side.

The La Crosse Rubber mills and the Summit Stove works were the plants inspected, and at both places the delegation was escorted through the building by the managers of the plant and shown all of the details.

The Rubber mills was the first visited and at the door the visitors were met by Geo. S. Andrus, the manager of the plant.

Every detail in the manufacture of rubber goods from the time it enters the factory until it is turned out into the finished articles was explained and demonstrated to the visitors.

About forty rubber shoe makers are now employed by the company, as it is at its busiest season in that line. There are about 175 hands employed in the rubber mills and according to Mr. Andrus the salary list paid by the company is the largest of any in town.

It is impossible, according to Mr. Andrus, to import as much labor as wanted, for the reason the men they would bring here are mostly factory men and there is no place for them to live.

The car system, he claimed, also interfered with their employing people, and that if a new causeway was established and better car service arranged it would be worth while for the company to enlarge their plant. As it is, however, they can do nothing, he says.

Visit Stove Works.

The next place visited was the Summit Stove works, but owing to the lateness of the hour the trip was somewhat hurried. The visitors were shown through the plant by Foreman R. W. Reid and Manager Thomas Folger and were shown every detail in the making of stoves. The first place visited was the moulding room, but owing to the time of day the men had finished their work. The process was explained to the visitors, however. From here they were taken to the polishing and other departments, and were shown the details in stove making from the time the castings are made until the stoves are ready for the market.

The trip to the Vote-Berger company was given up and a date for a visit there will be set later.

NIGHT MAN AT MILL STREET CROSSING

Anent the recent accident at the Mill street crossing the Milwaukee road has placed a man there during the night.

This morning when the first car came up there were green lights on the gates and this was not unnecessary, as the morning was quite dark and foggy.

Many accidents have occurred at this crossing in the past and in order to eliminate any narrow escapes a man has been employed to remain there during the evening.

MARRIED TUESDAY ON NORTH SIDE

Miss Petra Jacobson and Chas. R. R. Hanson were married Tuesday evening at the home of the bride on Kane street, Rev. H. G. Magelsen performing the ceremony. Miss Martha Elg acted as bridesmaid and Charles Knutson was best man.

PEOPLE BENEFIT BY RATE CUTTING

EUROPEAN TRIPS ARE NOW
CHEAP AS HOTEL LIFE

BEING TAKEN ADVANTAGE OF

Many From This Part of the North-west Pass Through Here Enroute for Foreign Climes

Travel to Europe on the big lines through La Crosse, the Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul road and the Chicago, Burlington & Quincy has been stimulated by the cheap rates on transatlantic boats. The effect has been felt and seen to a marked extent in La Crosse. The lines are engaged in a spectacular and free-for-all rate cutting and the people are reaping the benefit.

In the Northwest people generally are taking advantage of the fight to begin the trip earlier than usual. First class travel only is moving now, but the indications are that the steerage will begin shortly, and that the total volume will be the heaviest in years. Steamship agents are satisfied with the prospects of selling tickets.

Because one of the lines failed to charge as high for accommodation and transportation on one of its latest additions to the fleet, as deemed adequate by its competitors, one of the German companies slashed the first class rate. All the lines entered the fray, with the result that first class fare across the ocean now is lower than it has been for years. In fact, it has been five or six years since the steamship companies have been slashing first class rates until this season. There was a rate war four years ago, but it was confined to steerage rates.

Cheaper Than Hotel.

The regular first class fare on the boat which was the cause of the trouble is $1.00 and is now down to $52.50. This boat is equipped with an elevator, shower baths, etc., there being, in fact, not more than three other boats in transatlantic service service superior in appointments. She takes eight days to cross the water, making slightly above $6 a day, which a first class passenger has to pay for accommodation and transportation. This is cheaper than staying in many hotels in the country, and demonstrates what steamship companies, like railroads, will do when there is a war on.

The boat left on its present trip with 600 first class passengers, the big list undoubtedly being due to the low rate. Another boat of the same line, which has modern improvements but has not all the fine equipment of the other, left a couple of days later with sixty first class passengers. The rate on this boat is $50.

"I was greatly surprised at the difference in the number of first class passengers in the two boats," said a steamship agent. "Their capacity is about the same. It shows how people like these extra conveniences, and they cannot be blamed for taking them when they can get them so cheap."

Stay With Friends.

The outlook is that the movement to the old country from the Northwest will be heavy this year. Swedes, Italians, Austrians and Finns will start for their native land as soon as the snow flies, when they find some discomfort in working outdoors, and it is as cheap to travel steerage and stay with their friends and relatives as to put in the winter in the Northwest.

The real tourist travel from the Northwest will begin after the holidays. Bookings indicate that it will be more than ordinarily heavy.

INDIAN HILL IS DISAPPEARING

According to the opinions of numerous old residents the front of Indian Hill is gradually disappearing.

At some prehistoric date the portion of this country now occupied by the hill was the course of the Mississippians when the river changed its course from the east to the west bluff a great plateau of sand was left there and was given the name of Indian Hill because at that time the hill was the general camping grounds of the various tribes of Indians that roamed over the country.

A great portion of hill has been removed by the railroads the sand being used for various purposes along their routes.

One old resident who was out in that direction lately said that the rapidity with which portions of the hill was disappearing was something marvelous and that in his opinion in course of time the entire hill will have disappeared.

VOTE-BERGER TO MOVE IN DECEMBER

The Vote-Berger company will move their factory with the exception of the wood and finishing departments to their new location in the old Threshing Manufacturing company building in about two months.

The new building will be fitted for occupancy as soon as possible and charges will be made at the present plant so that the change can be easily made without causing much of a hitch in the output of the work.

Business is generally slack at that time of the year and the change can be made very rapidly.

A man isn't necessarily bald because he has no hair.

PROMOTION OF HOUGH MAKES CHANGES NECESSARY

MILLINGTON IS NEW CHIEF

Takes Place of Beisel, and William Ports, Car Distributor, Gets "Trick" Operators' Job

A general move up will take place soon at the Burlington route general offices at the corner of Pearl and Second streets.

The position of Trainmaster P. H. Hough, who has gone to Beardstown, Ill., where he will superintend the Beardstown division, has been taken by F. C. Beisel, who has been chief train dispatcher.

A. C. Millington, who has been employed at the Burlington offices since the road was established through here, and who has been "trick" operator, has been promoted to the position of chief dispatcher, the position held by Mr. Beisel.

The position as trick dispatcher held by Mr. Millington will be filled by William Ports, who has been employed for several years in this city as car distributor.

BAUM BUILDING TO BE OCCUPIED

The North Side postoffice and the confectionery store owned by Mrs. Minnie Whittenberg will soon occupy the building on the corner of St. Cloud and Rose street, owned by George Baum the clothier.

The building is the one wanted some time ago for a saloon. A strenuous protest was put up at that time by the merchants of Rose street however, and the council refused to grant a license for that situation.

No doubt the residents of the North Side will be pleased to hear of the rental of the building for the reason that the corner, during the vacancy of the building has always been a sort of a "hang-out" at night for North side boys. This will illuminate the place and will add much to the business-like appearance of Rose street.

The building was formerly used by George Baum as a meat market.

"BLOCK" LESSONS TO BURLINGTON MEN

W. H. Wilson of Chicago opened a class of instruction this morning, first of a series which he will give at the Burlington club house for the next few days, in regard to the new block system recently installed on the Burlington route.

The system is known as the "complete block" system and classes are to open under the instruction of Mr. Wilson at 9 a. m. and 2 p. m. each day, for trainmen, station agents, and operators.

MRS. SCHENCK IS LAID TO REST

The funeral of Mrs. Josephine Schenck, who died while sitting in her chair at her home, 1648 Locust street, was held yesterday morning from the St. John's Catholic church. The Rev. Father Kaluza officiated with Stetten in charge of the arrangements. Interment was made at the Catholic cemetery. A daughter from Waukon, Ia., was here to attend the funeral.

PILES 15 YEARS

Saved From an Operation By a Half Box of the Pyramid Pile Cure. You Can Try It Free.

"I cannot help writing to you about your wonderful cure for piles. When I wrote to you for a sample I was thinking of going through an operation. But I thought I would give your remedies a trial. I am so happy that I did for I am cured and only used half a box. I write this for humanity's sake. I had piles ever since the year 1891. I wish you would publish my name through the Bulletin paper for I am well known in the Marine Corps. Use my name the best way you know how. Thanking you for your good advice. Yours truly, Cleophas Forte, Marine Barracks, U. S. N. Training Station, San Francisco, Cal.

What should induce this United States seaman to write us in this manner if not gratitude for being cured of a disease which had tortured him for fifteen years? Mr. Forte was positively unknown to us until he wrote for the sample of our wonderful remedy.

You may be suffering in the same way.

Just send your name and address to Pyramid Drug Co., 99 Pyramid Building, Marshall, Mich., and receive free by return mail the trial package in a plain wrapper.

The moment you start to use it, your suffering ends and the cure of your dread disease is in sight.

Then you can get a full-sized box from any druggist for 50 cents and even one box will cure you.

It is well worth trying.

No knife and his torture.

No doctor and his bills.

All druggists, 50 cents. Write today for a free package.

MISS HIGBEE IS WEDDED YESTERDAY

At 9:30 o'clock yesterday morning occurred the wedding of Miss Effie Higbee and B. S. Covell at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. George Higbee, 733 Caledonia street. The couple was unattended and the affair was a quiet one, only relatives being in attendance. Rev. Clelland of Winona performed the ceremony and the couple left at noon for Chicago and other eastern cities on their honeymoon. They will make their home at Mason City where the groom is a railroad engineer.

POSTMISTRESS HAS COMPLETE CHARGE

On account of the increased amount of business at the No. 2 North Side sub-postal station that department has been placed under the complete charge of a post-mistress. Miss Laura Chambers is now in charge of the station.

FUNERAL OF MRS. WICKER TOMORROW

The funeral of Mrs. Andrew Wicker, who died at her home in West La Crosse yesterday from a complication of diseases, will be held tomorrow morning from the St. John's Catholic church on the North Side. The Rev. Father Kaluza will officiate at the services and William Dwyer will have charge of the arrangements. Interment is to be made at the Catholic cemetery.

NEW PASSENGER STATION.

On and after October 27 The Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will occupy the new Union Station at Washington, D. C., which is said to be the most magnificent passenger station in the world. The fare from Chicago to New York is $18.00 with stop-over at Washington, Baltimore and Philadelphia, not to exceed ten days at each place. For information address R. C. Haase, T. P. A., St. Paul, Minn., or B. N. Austin, G. P. A., Chicago.

NORTH SIDE BRIEFS

Mrs. Hanover who is here for inspection for local camps of the G. A. R. from Tomahawk, near Merrill, is also visiting at the home of Mrs. T. A. Lavake.

Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Lavake, who have been visiting friends and relatives in Grand Rapids, have returned to the home of their son, L. E. Lavake on the North side.

John Walker, the well known North side butcher, lost a valuable horse last evening.

A number of the employees of the Hirschheimer Plow works are being laid off temporarily while new boilers are being installed at the plant. The men will probably be back to work in a few weeks.

The father and mother of Mr. Thomas Morris have arrived in this city from Canada and will make their future home here. Mr. and Mrs. Morris are former residents of the North side, but left some time ago for Canada, where they had purchased a farm. They have sold the farm and will reside on the North side.

Herman Morris and wife and Mrs. Jensen, sister-in-law of Mr. Morris left last night for Chicago.

Messrs. Peter Webber and A. Brown have gone to Rice Lake, where they will spend some time hunting. They will return the last of the week.

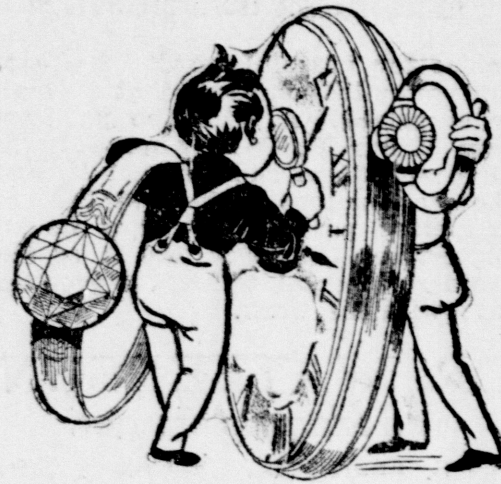

His Dear Old Mother.

"My dear old mother, who is now eighty-three years old, thrives on Electric Bitters," writes W. B. Brunson, of Dublin, Ga. "She has taken them for about two years and enjoys an excellent appetite, feels strong and sleeps well." That's the way Electric Bitters affect the aged, and the same happy results follow in all cases of female weakness and general debility. Weak, puny children too, are greatly strengthened by them. Guaranteed also for stomach, liver and kidney troubles, by O. T. Erhart, druggist, 50c.

GAME WITH SPARTA

HIGH SCHOOL BOYS
EXPECT A VICTORYBig Bunch of Rooters Will Accompany the Team

The outlook at the high school football camp for the game Saturday with Sparta is bright and the La Crosse boys are confident of victory. Coach Savage has had two teams out for practice every night this week and hard work has been taken up. The team has shown a great improvement in the past week, says Coach Savage, and are confident of victory.

Sparta being the nearest football opponent La Crosse has, the interest in the game Saturday is keen and the boys are practicing with vim and vigor to be able to defeat their neighbors.

Through the efforts of several of the students a large crowd of rooters have promised to attend the game at Sparta and help the boys to victory and from the present outlook about a hundred backers of the team will accompany the boys on their trip.

STEAMBOAT SEASON
NOW ABOUT OVER

The season for steamboats on any definite schedule was practically closed last Friday when the steamer La Crosse finished the last trip of her season.

Captain Wilcox left today for up river, near Wabasha and Lake Pepin where he will secure a few barges of wood. After he returns with the barges he will take his boat "La Crosse" into the usual docking place near the elevators where some repairing and remodeling will be done this winter.

The Weyerhaeuser stopped at La Crosse again today on her way back to St. Paul from Rock Island where Mr. and Mrs. Frederick Weyerhaeuser celebrated their golden wedding jubilee last Friday.

The steamer which bears his name stopped but a short time at the Port of La Crosse.

FINANCE COMMITTEE
TO MAKE UP BUDGET

Alderman G. A. Kellar, chairman of the finance committee, has called a meeting of the committee in the city hall Saturday for the purpose of making up the budget for the coming year and to make an inspection of other matters in the hands of the committee.

Those acquainted with the needs of the various funds will no doubt be represented to ask for various requirements.

The meeting will be called promptly at 8 o'clock.

CANNOT LOCATE
BOY WITH "FACE"

A complaint was telephoned to Health Officer Anthony Murphy, at the city hall this morning to the effect that a boy whose face looked "terrible" was roaming the streets between Ninth and Tenth, South of Cameron avenue.

The lady who telephoned said she believed that the boy had smallpox, and a scare has been started in the neighborhood.

An investigation was made today but the officer has thus far been unable to locate the traveling "epidemic."

There are some unfortunates who persist in turning their worst side toward the world and very often the temptation is great to just leave them alone.

LA CROSSE COUNTY
CONTRIBUTES $616THAT AMOUNT OF INHERITANCE TAX GOES TO STATE

MARY KRONER ESTATE LEADS

Total of $275 Tax, While Weimar Estate's Portion Was Next With $185.27

La Crosse county contributed $616.31 to the state treasury in inheritance taxes during the quarter just closed. County Treasurer William Weimar has forwarded the amount to the state treasurer at Madison, Wis.

The estate of Mary Kroner leads with a total of $275, while Jacob Weimar's heirs were next with $185.27. Four other estates made up the amount.

Following are the estates and the amounts paid by each:
Mary Kroner $275.00
Jacob Weimar 185.27
Albert Edgell 4.66
C. S. McKown 60.22
Nels Simonsen 86.19
Reinhart LaFleur 38.40

Total $648.74
Five per cent of the total amount is deducted and turned into the county treasury, leaving $616.31 for the state.

WEATHER BUILDING
READY TO ACCEPT

"It is impossible to state the exact time when we will occupy our new building," said Weather Observer E. C. Thompson yesterday but we expect to be located in about two weeks.

"Every thing has now been installed in the new building and we will only have to get a few floors varnished before we call upon the finished before we call upon the inspector from Washington, D. C., to accept the building. If the building passes a satisfactory examination we will begin at once to move into our new quarters and I will be glad when I am finally located."

None of them machinery has been moved from the old observatory as yet and will not be disturbed until the building has been accepted.

MORE SINGERS
ASK ACCOMMODATION

Secretary John L. Utermoehl has received a request from Henry Bode at Manitowish, Wis., for accommodations for about fifteen active singers at the saengerfest. Mr. Bode is secretary of the Manitowish Liederkranz and will be unable to come, so he has instructed the local secretary to secure accommodations for the members of his society some of whom also want accommodations for their wives and children.

Mr. Utermoehl says that in all probability they will stop at the Hotel Stoddard.

J. Bargens of Westby has returned home after transacting business in the city.

Henry E. Jones of Tampa, Fla., writes: "I can thank God for my present health, due to Foley's Kidney Cure. I tried doctors and all kinds of kidney cures, but nothing done me much good till I took Foley's Kidney Cure. Four bottles cured me, and I have no more pain in my back and shoulders. I am 62 years old, and suffered long, but thanks to Foley's Kidney Cure I am well and can walk and enjoy myself. It is a pleasure to recommend it to those needing a kidney medicine."

T. D. Christenson has returned to his home in Mable after spending a few days with friends in the city.

O. C. Holstein of Spring Grove was a business caller in the city for a short time yesterday.

Hans A. Hanson of Alden, Minn., is the guest of his brother in the city for a short time.

No home is so pleasant, regardless of the comforts that money will buy, as when the entire family is in perfect health. A bottle of Orino Laxative Fruit Syrup costs 50 cents. It will cure every member of the family of constipation, sick headache or stomach trouble. O. T. Erhart.

REBUILD BURNED
LEEVE STRUCTURE

The La Crosse river front is still to loom with large buildings.

In addition to the large annex of the Listman Milling company, the owner of the W. A. Roosevelt site, which plant was recently consumed by fire with the La Crosse Cracker and Candy company building, will rebuild a three story and basement structure.

He contemplated making a start on the structure this fall and Mr. and Mrs. F. Strupp today was busy unloading several cars of lumber, which will be used in erecting the building.

It has not yet been rented.

HOW TO GET RID OF FAT

Remarkable Discovery That Can Reduce Fat Harmlessly at the Rate of a Pound a Day.

A Trial Box Sent Free.

A quick harmless reducer of fat, called Rengo, has come into popular use which far eclipses any method or treatment heretofore used.

You Eat Rengo Like Fruit or Candy and Easily Reduce Your Fat a Pound a Day.

Rengo is perfectly harmless, pleasant to take and it is chewed like candy. It attacks abnormal tissue with unerring accuracy, and causes a gradual, harmless but effective reduction in weight, and without leaving wrinkles which are nearly always present after taking drugs and other dangerous materials commonly called "anti-fats."

There is nothing "just as good" as Rengo. For sale by all druggists at $1.00 per full sized box, or by mail prepaid, by the Rengo Co., 3183 Rengo Bldg., Detroit, Mich. The company will gladly send you a trial package free by mail, if you will write them direct to Detroit; no free packages at drug stores. For sale and recommended in La Crosse by C. F. L. Runckel, Red Cross Drug Stores and O. T. Erhart's.

Hard Times in Kansas.

The old days of grasshoppers and drouth are almost forgotten in the prosperous Kansas of today; although a citizen of Codell, Earl Shamburgh, has not yet forgotten a hard time he encountered. He says: "I was worn out and discouraged by coughing night and day, and could find no relief till I tried Dr. King's New Discovery. It took less than one bottle to completely cure me." The safest and most reliable cough and cold and lung and throat healer ever discovered. Guaranteed by O. T. Erhart's drug store, 50c and $1.00. Trial bottle free.

FIND BABE'S BODY ROPE AROUND NECK

CHILDREN MAKE A GHASTLY DISCOVERY

CORPSE ON GARBAGE PILE

Victim Had Been Killed by a Blow, Decides Coroner's Jury; Police Start Search.

MARSHALLTOWN, Ia., Oct. 17.—The shrunken and dried-up body of an infant presumably not more than a week old, was found by children in Molrose Park, a suburban addition to the city. The body was turned from under a pile of garbage in which the children were digging with sticks.

Thinking it was some other animal than a human being, the children tied a cord about its neck and began dragging it about, until its identity was discovered and they were stopped by a woman of the neighborhood. She summoned the police, and an inquest was held in the afternoon. The coroner's verdict was that the babe had been killed by a blow which produced a fracture at the base of the skull.

Physicians who examined the body say that the babe was from five to ten days of age when it was killed. It had been where it was discovered for upwards of a month. The police are searching for its murderer.

NORTHWEST BRIEFS

BARNESVILLE, Minn.—Potato pickers are in a great demand in this vicinity this fall. The potato crop is a bumper this year, and prices paid are $2.50 to $3.50 and board a day. Unless pickers arrive there will be many acres of potatoes frozen by next Saturday.

KIESTER, Minn.—Mrs. Henry Temple was struck by an extra yesterday while on the track here and instantly killed. Her back was broken. The deceased was about fifty-five years of age.

NEW ULM, Minn.—August Dahlmann, of the village of Nicollet, mysteriously disappeared from his home last Friday afternoon. He told his wife that he was going fishing. When he did not return home, Mrs. Dahlmann became alarmed and notified neighbors. Search was instituted and the body was found in the Minnesota river.

SAUK RAPIDS, Minn.—The 2½-year-old son of Fred Miller, of this city, accidentally drank a tumbler of kerosene Sunday. Heroic work on the part of the physician saved the little boy's life.

SAUK RAPIDS, Minn.—Miss Susan McEwen, aged 67, a spinster who has been living alone on her farm near here with a cat as her sole companion, has been declared insane by Probate Judge Scott.

HASTINGS, Minn.—At the meeting of the city council A. M. Hayes was appointed delegate to attend the meeting of the Upper Mississippi River Improvement association, which meets at Moline, Ill., Oct. 22 and 23.

BAGLEY, Minn.—Rev. A. C. Woodcock, who has been pastor of the Congregational church here for the last two years and eight months, has tendered his resignation.

ROCHESTER, Minn.—Irving McCabe, a former Rochester citizen and now claiming Merriam Park as his home, is wanted for the theft of a horse and buggy, taken from Merriam Park, and sold in this city. On Sept. 29, McCabe came to this city with the outfit, and sold it to Dr. E. J. Whipple of this city. As the state offers a reward of $200 for the capture of a horse thief every effort possible will be made to locate him.

ALBERT LEA, Minn.—The Jewel hardware store was badly damaged by fire as the result of an explosion in the basement of the store. As one of the members of the firm was drawing tar from a cask he lit a match to see his way when the explosion followed.

CHARGE INFANTICIDE

CROOKSTON, Minn., Oct. 17.—A sensation has been caused in Twin Valley by the arrest of Miss Lena Kargero, daughter of Street Commissioner Kargero of Twin Valley, charged with child murder. The girl, aged 20 years, has been living on the Ole Omundson farm, one mile west of Twin Valley, and last Saturday Mr. Omundson discovered the body of an infant in a well in a pasture which was used only to water stock. He advised the authorities, and Lena Kargero was arrested and at a preliminary hearing she was bound over to the grand jury of Norman county, and is now in Crookston in custody of Sheriff Peterson of Norman county. She will be held in jail here until the next term of court.

The defendant denies everything, but it is stated that there is evidence against her. It is understood that the name of a prominent young man of Twin Valley is connected with the case.

But we must not do that, for on every one of us there rests a moral obligation to help our fellow beings all we can. In finding good qualities in them we are helping them to raise to a higher plane, both in their own and in the world's estimation.—Home Chat.

TAWNEY TO VISIT PANAMA ONCE MORE

WINONA CONGRESSMAN TO SET PANAMA CANAL

TELLS STUDENTS OF PLANS

Addresses Normal School and Describes Work of Government; Praises Col. Goethal

WINONA, Minn., Oct. 17.—In an address before the normal school, Congressman James A. Tawney gave some facts concerning the Panama canal. He also announced that he and the appropriations committee of congress will start for the canal zone about Nov. 1 to inspect the work so that they may make proper appropriations for the canal next year. At present the estimates for next year call for an outlay of $31,000,000.

Reviewing the recent history of the isthmus, the speaker found justification for the revolt of Panama on the ground that with the alternative in the hands of the president to select the Nicaragua route the Panamas were with the failure of the Hay-Herran treaty about to lose the benefits of the isthmus canal.

Of the two activities essential to the success of the outcome, the creating of healthful conditions and the actual work of construction, both are proceeding in the most satisfactory way.

Approves Goethals' Work

Mr. Tawney paid a high tribute to Col. Goethals for his services in producing good sanitary conditions, not only in the zone proper, but in the cities of Colon and Panama. Evidence of the success of his efforts lies in the facts that not a case of yellow fever has shown itself in two years, malaria has been greatly reduced, the death rate for whites is actually less than in Winona, while that of the natives is only slightly greater.

In spite of the difficulty in securing a satisfactory type of laborer the work is progressing rapidly. Thirty-six thousand men are on the payroll, though there are seldom more than 26,000 at work at one time. The native laborer works for four or five days then retires to the shade of his hut until the proceeds of his labor has been exhausted, and necessity compels further industry.

Laborers From Europe

The better wages now paid to white labor are attracting high-grade workers from Southern Europe, and it is hoped that within a short time native labor can be largely dispensed with. Eighty-five steam shovels are now at work in the Culebra cut and elsewhere, each one capable of filling a car in one-fourth of a minute.

Mr. Tawney was enthusiastic over the organization of the work forces and the devices that have been employed for expeditious operation. His visit to the isthmus had confirmed him in the belief that the government had fixed upon the right type of canal. In time, expense and ease of operation the lock canal has unquestioned advantages over the sea-level type. The cost of the canal to the United States, including concessions and construction will be about $300,000,000. There are now being expended about $30,000,000 yearly, $26,000,000 having been appropriated for the present year, with a resulting deficit of about $7,000,000 still to be provided for.

The Horrors of Chronic Constipation

Are Quickly Relieved By This Simple Prescription.

Chronic constipation causes more misery than any other disease. It creates insomnia, brain fog, nervous debility, female weaknesses, stomach trouble, etc., and yet if treated naturally is easily overcome.

Purgatives, severe laxatives, cathartics, etc., is not the road to the successful relief of constipation. Build up the muscles, nerves and tissues of the bowels and the inroads of constipation cease.

This simple prescription will cure this disease and will at the same time revitalize the entire nerve organism of man or woman. Mix one ounce of Obifrut Compound Extract, and seven ounces of port wine or unfermented grape juice. Take dessertspoonful three or four times daily, before meals and at bed time. These ingredients can be purchased from any drug store. The prescription contains only the active principles of rare tropical fruits, in a concentrated form, and must not be confused as a patent medicine.

It contains no narcotics, alcohol, animal or mineral substances, but is a pure fruit product, which makes it so highly beneficial in all cases of constipation and nervous disorders. For nervous debility it is without a peer. Mix the prescription in your own home and buy your wine or grape juice from a druggist, to insure purity.

Our readers will find Obifrut Compound Extract on sale at all first-class druggists.

NEARBY CITIES TOWNS AND FARMS

LA CRESCENT, MINN.

Misses Delia Post and Luella Yohe have returned from Black River Falls, Wis.

Rev. Langell now has the Methodist parish.

Mr. Joan Ginther and wife left for West Superior to visit the former's parents.

The Ladies' Aid of the Presbyterian church held an experience sociable at the home of Mrs. Lafa Whitehouse. Each lady had to earn a dollar and then all their experience in earning this dollar was related. Some are given:

Listen my women and you shall hear My tale of woe, it's dark and drear; My husband came home one night from work,

And found me a jawing because the children did shirk; He told me to go to bed and keep still,

And he would give me a dollar of his own free will.

There once was a dog named Bill, Who was quite exceedingly ill; The doctor prescribed not a pill But lots of fresh air on a hill. So we took this dear little Bill, The fact is, he's with us still As a boarder, not guest, On our farm southwest, A very exceptional Bill, To tell experience, will Be sure, I am certain to fill More space than is best So I'll now take a rest And present you This dear little Bill.

Last one day not the first, Do you ever think it, I made up my mind to earn a dollar In some way or other. I went out one day and thought I would Strip strawberry plants. But, oh dear, that was too slow, 25 cents a hundred that would take A whole week and such dirty work. When strawberries were ripe, I tried to pick them

And earn the rest of my money, But they were a short crop. So I had to look for something else. At last apples were ripe, So I began to play Sheeney. And from house to house I went Calling Apples, apples, nice, sweet apples!

This proved a final success.

"Have you heard the news that is going around that the little village of La Crescent is to have an experience sociable? At last a remedy has been found that will cure our town of gossip and swell the purse of the churches. And what do you think those Presbyterians had the cheek to ask me? An Armenian (as mean as you can be) Methodist to earn a dollar for their social. Of course I felt highly honored, (but I would not have them know it for the world). Well, I thought I would commence with Mrs. H., as she is the Dr.'s wife and, of course, she thinks she is somebody. I had some biscuits that were as hard as rocks; I thought it would be a good chance to get rid of them, so I sold them to the Dr. for 5 cents apiece, and I guess he did too, for after the Ladies' Aid they both drove up and wanted a loaf of bread. I supposed he thought he struck such a good bargain that if they both came they could do better still. Well, I had a loaf of moldy bread, I had been wondering and wondering how I was going to get rid of it, so I thought now is my chance, so I let them have it for a nickel and dropped the nickel in the box for the experience social, for surely that was a fine experience. Next Mrs. M. came in and wanted a dish and I had one that had a crack in it, and as she wanted to send it off I thought well, I can get that on to her and she will think it got cracked in going, and I will be 15 cents ahead and can give that for the sociable, for surely that was another experience. Next came Mrs. E. B. and wanted half a dozen eggs, and I had some that were real small and not very fresh, so I turned my back to her and shoved them into a sack and I heard two break, but I thought she wouldn't find it out until she got home and would think she broke them going home. I was real glad they broke for she could not see how small they were. Now if you doubt my word about the eggs just ask Mrs. E. B. Well, the next bargain I struck was a hammer, who wanted some lace for a handkerchief and I had some that was cut in short lengths, so I thought now is my chance to get rid of that lace, so I worked it onto her for 8 cents. Next a little girl came in and wanted an apple for a penny, so I found one that had a rotten spot in it and I let her have that. That made 9 cents and I wondered how I was going to get the other penny to make out ten cents, but by and by an opportunity came. Opportunities always come to those who watch for them. A man came in with

A cautious look around he stole, His bags of chink he chink; And many a wicked smile he smole And many a wink he wink.

Before he said, I don't suppose you keep anything for the headache? and I said, 'Sure, Wright's headache tablets,' and he said, 'Give me one quick,' and so I looked around and found one that had been lying around and had lost its strength, and I was sure that would not hurt him any and I gave it to him for a penny and I charged him 5 cents for a glass of water and kept the nickel for myself, and gave the penny to the experience social; 6 cents for a glass of water and a tablet that had lost its strength; I will defy any of you to give a better experience than that. There are tricks in all trades. Several weeks elapsed before I had a chance to make anything more. But one day Dora had a mouse fall in a jar of cream and as she did not want to eat the butter herself, she sold it to me for 25 cents a pound. And along came the landlady and wanted some butter for her boarders and I thought now is my chance again, so I sold it to her and made 8 cents off it. It is an old saying that anything is good enough for boarders, and I thought I was pretty sharp to get the best of the landlady and the Dr.'s wife, me a howling Methodist.

Next Mrs. D. and I entertained the soap club and slid her butter out of sight and sold it. Then Mrs. W. wanted some honey, and I tried to cheat her out of a nickel, but she caught me at it, so that scheme did not work, but never mind, I will get even with her yet. Once in a while you get caught, not often, it is better to practice on strangers. Well, I must figure up and see if I have earned my dollar yet; 5 and 8 are 10, and 9 are 15, and 12 are 20, and 25 are 50, that's half (I hope I have enough), 10 and 3 are 12 and 4 are 21 and 6 are 30 and 25 are 56 and 60 makes one dollar. There I have got it all figured up right, and will close with the golden rule, the good old rule, the simple plan: That they do take who have the power, And they do keep who can."

Prizes were presented to Mrs. Eugenia Boynton for having the best experience, and Mrs. G. Donald won the booby prize.

CHARGE HUSBAND CHOKED HIS WIFE

NEIGHBORS FOUND MAN IN AS- SAULT ON WOMAN

VICTIM IN CRITICAL STATE

Disparity of 30 Years in Age May Have Had Influence on Attempted Murder—Money Matters

BARABOO, Wis., Oct. 17.—Had it not been for prompt action of neighbors upon hearing her screams, A. S. Hawley, a cement contractor, might have caused his wife's death. When the neighbors entered the house they found Mrs. Hawley, who is past 70 years of age, lying on the cellar floor in a pool of blood, and they state that her husband was apparently choking her. Hawley, who is but 40 years of age, was arrested and placed in jail to await developments.

Mrs. Hawley was formerly the wife of the late N. W. Wheeler, who was the first settler in Baraboo, and the first white child born in Madison.

Her condition is critical, as two wounds were found on her head, possibly made with a hammer. Money matters is said to be the cause of the trouble.

WARNER'S PRIMARY MEASURE BEATEN

LANSING, Mich., Oct. 17.—The administration opponents succeeded in substituting for the Allen primary bill a measure drawn by the attorney general smoothing out the provisions of the present primary act, but retaining the 40 per cent clause relating to the nomination of governor and lieutenant governor. The bill was ordered printed, and will be considered by the senate Thursday. The anti-lolby bill was referred in the house to the committee on judiciary.

to eat the butter herself, she sold it to me for 25 cents a pound. And along came the landlady and wanted some butter for her boarders and I thought now is my chance again, so I sold it to her and made 8 cents off it. It is an old saying that anything is good enough for boarders, and I thought I was pretty sharp to get the best of the landlady and the Dr.'s wife, me a howling Methodist. Next Mrs. D. and I entertained the soap club and slid her butter out of sight and sold it. Then Mrs. W. wanted some honey, and I tried to cheat her out of a nickel, but she caught me at it, so that scheme did not work, but never mind, I will get even with her yet. Once in a while you get caught, not often, it is better to practice on strangers. Well, I must figure up and see if I have earned my dollar yet; 5 and 8 are 10, and 9 are 15, and 12 are 20, and 25 are 50, that's half (I hope I have enough), 10 and 3 are 12 and 4 are 21 and 6 are 30 and 25 are 56 and 60 makes one dollar. There I have got it all figured up right, and will close with the golden rule, the good old rule, the simple plan: That they do take who have the power, And they do keep who can."

WOMAN "RAFFLES" ATTEMPTS SUICIDE

MRS. ROMADKA TURNS ON GAS IN SANITARIUM

NURSE DISCOVERS FUMES

Days of Hysteria, nervous collapse, and Fainting Fits Thought Responsible.

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 17.—Evelyn Caine Romadka attempted to kill herself by asphyxiation at the Nugent sanitarium last Friday evening, while in Milwaukee after her Chicago escapades. Her nurse as a consequence had a narrow escape from death. Mrs. Romadka was a patient at the sanitarium.

Her attempt at suicide followed days of hysteria, nervous collapse and fainting fits. The attempt is told by the woman attendant at the sanitarium who was with Mrs. Romadka constantly while there.

"I had received orders from John F. Donovan not to leave my patient for a moment," said the attendant. "I devoted my entire time to her. I had feared an attempt at suicide, and had removed everything from the room that might have been used by a desperate woman. I caught her eyeing the cracked globe of a chandelier fixture one day, and I even removed that to prevent the patient's injuring herself with it. She had always begged me not to leave her. When I attempted to leave the room, if only for an instant, she would plead: 'Don't leave me! Don't leave me!'"

Nurse Leaves the Room.

"But Thursday she didn't object when I left the room to answer a telephone, and when I returned she lay so still I was afraid that she had done herself harm. I took her temperature and pulled back the bedclothes to see if she had concealed anything, but I found that she had not."

"Friday afternoon she told me that she felt sleepy and thought she would try to sleep for a while. I said 'Then I'll try to do the same. I'll lie down on the bed next to yours.' I left the room for a moment to get a book from the next room. When I returned, I lay down and shut my eyes. I was utterly worn out with the strain of watching and nursing. I must have been dozing for some time when suddenly I felt myself choking, stifling. I awoke with a gasp, sat up, and looked about me. The room was filled with the odor of escaping gas, and both gas jets above my head were open and the gas fumes pouring from them."

"Mrs. Romadka was curled up in a heap at the foot of her bed, utterly still."

GREEN BAY, Wis., Oct. 17.—Hazel May Thompson, 20 years old, daughter of Robert Thompson, graduate this summer from West high school, and Will Benney, 21 years old, eloped to Chicago and were married by Bishop Fallows of the Reformed Methodist Episcopal church. The father followed his

BOOM HOOKER FOR MILWAUKEE MAYOR

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The successful junket of Tax Commissioner William F. (Idaho Bill) Hooker through the east in search of methods for killing tax-dodgers, has placed him in line for the mayoralty, say politicians. Mr. Hooker, as secretary to Mayor Sher-bis Becker, was credited with a good deal of knowledge of city affairs, and some believe he would make a good successor to the boy wonder. If Mr. Hooker decided to listen to the bee, Clinton G. Price, formerly of Mauston, now assistant city attorney, will have strong opposition in the race for the seat.

STREET CAR MEN ORGANIZE UNION

MILWAUKEE, Wis., Oct. 17.—Three hundred employees of the Milwaukee Electric Railway and Light company have pledged themselves to each other for the organization of a branch of the Amalgamated Association of Street and Electric Railway Employees of America. The organization of the men has been carried on secretly.

CHARGE PLOT TO KILL

KENOSHA, Wis., Oct. 17.—With the startling announcement that a deliberate attempt was made to cause Prof. Charles Hopkins to fall to his death from a high dive platform here on Sunday, J. J. Anderson, the manager for Hopkins, has asked the police to investigate the matter. Hopkins fell fifty-five feet and struck on the edge of the tank into which he was to have dived, which shows that the guy wires had been loosened by unknown parties and when Hopkins reached the platform he found it insecure.

RECLAIM VAST AREA

WAUSAU, Wis., Oct. 17.—The Daucy drainage commission has disposed of $150,000 worth of bonds, which will enable the commission to proceed with the plan of draining the Daucy district. It is expected that thousands of acres of otherwise useless lands will be reclaimed for agricultural purposes in Marathon, Wood and Portage counties. The undertaking will require two years of hard labor and will be one of the greatest places of engineering ever attempted in northern Wisconsin.

CONSTABLE RELEASED

CHIPPEWA FALLS, Wis., Oct. 17.—John Peterschick, constable of the town of Edison, has been released on habeas corpus proceedings brought by Attorney D. E. Cook before Judge Jenkins. The grounds for the release were that the complaint, warrant, and commitment charged Mr. Peterschick with two separate offenses, namely, shooting a mink, protected by law, and hunting without a license, while the records showed that he had only pleaded guilty to the charge of shooting the mink, and the sentence included the penalty of hunting without a license, which offense he might or might not be guilty of.

AFTER HOTEL CROOK

MANITOWOC, Wis., Oct. 17.—W. R. Graham, who is suspected of being a professional forger and hotel beater, secured $46.51 from the Williams house of this city, by means of a forged check on the First National bank of Chicago the signature on the same being L. E. Evans. Graham made his escape just in the nick of time, the Beaumont hotel at Green Bay, which was also victimized out of $49, sending the local hotel a notice of the loss a few hours after the departure of the stranger from this city.

WISCONSIN IS THERE

OKLAHOMA CITY, Okla., Oct. 17.—(Special.)—The Farmers' National congress, which began its sessions here today, is proving to be one of the largest conventions ever held. Wisconsin is well represented. Among the delegates is Assemblyman W. A. Cernahan of Eau Claire.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis., Oct.—An autopsy held on the remains of the child that died at the W. C. T. U. Maternity home convinced the examining physicians that the child died of starvation. Nobody has as yet been prosecuted.

STATE IN BRIEF

OCONOMOWOC, Wis.—H. F. Lyke has received a unique but priceless gift from friends in Alaska—a walrus tusk 26 inches long, finished as a cribbage board. The tusk is handsomely carved and done in colors, and the supports are of ivory. The work was done by an Eskimo.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—The arrival here today of Gen. William Booth, the venerable head and founder of the Salvation Army, was the occasion for great outbursts of enthusiasm. Gen. Booth will deliver an address at the Pabst theater tonight. He is accompanied by his daughter, Commander Eva Booth, and several other prominent officers from Europe. Ex-Gov. Peck will preside tonight. This will be Gen. Booth's last visit to America.

MADISON, Wis.—The railway commission today is holding a hearing concerning rates on pulp wood. No doubt there will be ordered some reduction in the tariff. This is an important matter to the immense pulp interests of Wisconsin.

MILWAUKEE, Wis.—Although denials have been made, it is now understood to be a fact that Wisconsin Methodist Episcopalians who will attend the Baltimore national conference in 1908 will have as a candidate for Bishop Dr. Samuel Plantz, of Appleton.

RACINE, Wis.—Louis Schneider, a carpenter, aged 45 years, while engaged in erecting a new fire department engine house, fell sixty-five feet from the roof to the ground and is probably fatally hurt. His skull is fractured and one leg broken. He has a wife and three daughters.

EAU CLAIRE, Wis.—Frank Gosper of this city was perhaps fatally burned in a wreck on the Duluth and Mesaba road near Duluth. Gosper was a fireman on an engine which was in a wreck, the engineer being killed outright.

KAUKAUNA, Wis.—Dr. W. C. Sullivan, Len Nelson and Roy Kuehn have received notice from the government that each has drawn a quarter section of land at the recent drawing at Jerome, Idaho. There were over 1,800 entries and Dr. Sullivan was the most fortunate of the trio, his number being 325.

STEVENS POINT, Wis.—Nicholas Meagel, aged 29, was suffocated in a well on the farm of John Kubisak, near Amherst Junction. Meagel went fifty feet to the bottom to remove false curbing placed by well diggers, when the earth caved in to a depth of twenty-five feet. Meagel's father is a farmer in that vicinity.

Timely Tips To Rheumatics

Medical Expert Gives Simple Directions for the Cure of Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder Troubles.

The well-known physician, Dr. George Edmund Flood, states that Rheumatism and the more frequent forms of Kidney and Bladder Troubles are largely due to errors in diet and the general mode of life.

Dr. Flood cautions all who have Rheumatism or Kidney and Bladder ailments to be moderate in the consumption of heavy, rich foods. A good diet will be found in soups, broths, fresh milk, and plenty of water. "You should," says Dr. Flood, "take plenty of time to eat and immediately cease eating when your stomach tells you that you have had enough, even though your palate may still ask for more. If your work is confining a moderate amount of exercise, taken each day in the open air, will be of great benefit."

Dr. Flood wishes it understood, however, that careful diet will not alone suffice to cure these ailments, although it proves of invaluable assistance. Dr. Flood has achieved great success in his practice in the treatment of Rheumatism, Kidney and Bladder troubles, and for the benefit of our readers he has consented to our reproduction in this column of the complete prescription which contributed so greatly to his success. Dr. Flood says that this prescription is the most certain cure for the diseases which we have mentioned that he has ever come across in many years of busy practice.

Here is the prescription: Fluid Extract Caraca Aromatic, 1/2 ounce; Concentrated Barkola Compound, 1 ounce; Aromatic Elixir, 4 ounces.

Adult dose: One teaspoonful after meals and at bedtime; children, one-fourth to one-half teaspoonful after meals. This prescription can be filled by any druggist, anywhere, or, better still, get the ingredients yourself and mix them at home by shaking them up in a bottle.

TAFT DON'T WANT BOOM COCKTAILS

MANILA, Oct. 17.—No cocktails for William H. Taft, secretary of war and presidential candidate.

Having observed the havoc wrought in the Fairbanks boom by one small cocktail, Mr. Taft has issued orders that not only the festive cocktail but liquors of any kind whatsoever are barred from his table. This action in view of the many functions arranged in his honor, has created considerable discussion here.

The secretary of war arrived in Manila at 4:30 yesterday from Hong-kong and received an enthusiastic welcome. The official reception of the secretary began with a water parade, which was headed by Governor Leonard Wood, commander of the division of the Philippine Islands, and Rear Admiral Hemphill, commanding the third squadron of the Pacific fleet.

The Baltimore & Ohio the First Railroad to Enter the New Union Station, Washington, D. C., Oct. 27, 1907.

BALTIMORE, Sept. 21.—On and after October 27, 1907, the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad will abandon its present passenger station at New Jersey Avenue and C street, Washington, D. C., and occupy the new Union Station at the intersection of Massachusetts and Delaware Avenues, two blocks northeast of the old station. The Baltimore & Ohio will be the first to use this magnificent structure, and all passenger trains, through and local, to or from Washington, will use this station. The old station will be torn down and the tracks removed for the grand plaza, making it necessary for the Baltimore & Ohio to use the new station before it is entirely finished.

Intense interest has been shown throughout the country in the building of what has been aptly termed "The Vestibule of the Nation," and travelers will have an opportunity of witnessing the finishing touches upon this great structure, which will be the most magnificent railway station in the world.

As a matter of history the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad, the first railway of America, was the first railway to enter Washington, in 1835, and it is fitting that it be the first to open the doors of the great central station at Washington, which will eventually be used by all the railroads which enter the National Capital.

of their deeds, and although we fully realize that its massive structure and beautiful outlines are hopelessly insufficient to properly commemorate the historic significance, the state of Wisconsin has erected this monument in honor of her sons who suffered and died here.

No Personal Cause.

"War is indeed a cruel legislator. In its name are committed deeds which cause reason to stagger and civilization to recoil upon itself. The great civil war, for the interpretation of the fundamental instrument of our government, decreed that while each individual within our boundaries is a citizen of his respective commonwealth, yet he was also a citizen of one central government, supreme over all states, finding its existence in the amalgamation of commonwealths, and one from which no state, once admitted, should have a right to secede. The war was as necessary as it was inevitable. For generations, suspicion, jealousy and sectional envy had aroused those passions which only war could subdue, and in whose smoldering embers would be reawakened the spirit of unity and fraternity essential to the broadest national existence. It was a war without equal in the annals of history. Personal ambition and the desire for national aggrandizement found no consideration here. Both sides, American by birth and education, could never have sacrificed themselves by the tens of thousands except upon the belief that they were fighting for a principle which was greater than all worldly things. The courage, the constancy and the endurance of the southern soldier was never surpassed. The pluck, the patriotism and the persistence of the northern volunteer was never excelled. The decision which those four years of conflict announced was sealed by the hundreds of battlefields where they fought, and the thousands of graves which have ridged every state of the south.

On the Battlefield.
 "The civil war taught the world the value of American men. It produced a new type—the citizen soldier. The hundreds of thousands of

FOR CONSUMPTIVES

A specialist of a noted Eastern clinic gives the following formula as the best known formula for consumption:

Mix two ounces of glycerine with eight ounces of good whiskey and add one-half ounce of Concentrated oil of pine. Take a teaspoonful or a tablespoonful every four hours.

Care should be taken to get the real Concentrated oil of pine, which comes only in one-half ounce vials sealed in round air-tight wooden cases. The ingredients can be procured at any drug store. The above formula will also cure bad coughs and colds very quickly.

men who responded to the call of battle, both from the north and from the south, were not men trained in the school of militarism. They were not men whose chosen profession was one of slaughter and pillage. They came from the peaceful pursuits of life, men trained in the arts and industries of a commercial and agricultural people. The artisan, the farmer, the student and the professional man, thinking not of selfish interests nor of personal gain—these were the men whose bravery and endurance made the civil war the greatest struggle in history. The world had often seen gigantic armies. Military hordes had swept over Asia and Europe, destroying cities, conquering empires, and turning back the hand of progress. These vast armies gathered by the command of law, by purchase and by physical force, fought for the spoils of conquest, for monarchical aggrandizement or to satisfy the personal ambitions of a military despot. The citizen of '61, seeking only the safety of his country, required by the knowledge of his country's needs to offer himself for the defense of principles which were institutional in his life. Every soldier of those trying times gained for himself immortal honor in the consciousness of a duty well performed. Thousands laid it on the field of combat, at the cannon's mouth, amid the storm of smoke and battle; thousands of others found it in the saddest chapter of a soldier's life—the languor and yearnings of the military prison.

To die on the fields of battle in the heat of the conflict, conscious of the victory of his arms, has always been the wish of the soldier. To pass away thus is to die alone in the open plains, or by the side of comrades in arms. They receive his dying words. They give his body the last sad rites of a soldier. They tell those dear to him that he fought bravely and died a soldier's death. In such a scene there is inspiration; there is glory in such a death. Music and poetry for ages have found it their choicest theme.

Behind Prison Bars.

Turn now to the soldier who languished behind the prison bars. Hunger, thirst and disease claimed him for their own. The free open air was often denied him. His patriotic sighs and prayers re-echoed from walls, mute and dark. The agonizing throbs of his heart found no sympathy. There were no loving and tender hands to minister to his dying wishes. What yearnings, what hopes, and what wishes must have flitted through his feverish brain! What scenes of happy hours his imagination must have pictured! And yet I doubt not his heart was free from anguish and bitterness. His death was a martyrdom, as lofty in soul, as trying in courage and as grand and holy in patriotic virtue as was ever attested by death for principle. Recall to the mind of an aged veteran of that war the scenes of battle. His head is thrown back, his breath quickens, and the eye flashes with the spirit of events. Recall to his memory prison days, and sadness creeps over his features and his head is bowed in sorrow. May the day soon come when we shall have reached that stage of development of mankind, when in the solution of public problems wars shall cease and man's natural instincts for combat will give place to the more reasonable consideration of an enlightened progress.

No Greater Dead.

The monument which we dedicate here today is sacred to the memory of the military prisoner. It rests upon a spot which will never be forgotten as long as history is recorded. Wisconsin offers it to the south, untainted with malignity and bitterness. It is with pleasure that I receive this beautiful monument from the commission, which supervised its erection, and it is with equal pleasure that I give it into the watchful care and keeping of that magnificent organization, the Women's Relief Corps. This product of the sculptor's art is a tribute to those who died here for their country. No future age can have greater dead than these; no graves can hold holier dust than these. In this hallowed ground are buried with them the passions of war, and all the jealous strife of sections. Today we know only the spirit of unity and the fraternity of love and respect. We behold a union firmly established in the hearts, affections and loyalty of its citizens. We pay equal military honors to him who wore the gray as are showered upon the wearer of the blue.

A Reunited Country.

In Forest Hill cemetery in the city of Madison are buried the remains of 132 sturdy and brave sons who fought for the south. They died in a military prison in that city. Each grave bears the name and regiment of him who rests there. No Memorial day passes but a child's gentle hand, assisted by the veterans who wore the blue, places a flag and a wreath of flowers upon each of the many hundreds of soldiers' graves in that cemetery. The distinction of uniform was forgotten with the announcement of a reunited country. They fought and died for convictions which they cherished. They were all American citizens.

This monument is not only for the dead; it is for the living as well. It is a tribute to the dead, an inspiration to the living. It speaks a sentiment which language is too limited to express. If inspiration can come from association, if determination comes from example, if virtue, loyalty and righteousness are capable of awakening, then where in history is there an occasion which will so arouse the love of principle, the obedience to law, the charity, generosity and inspiring patriotism of American citizenship, as here, where over 13,000 men died of disease and exposure that a noble cause might live. The actions of the elements will destroy this monument, time may efface all physical traces of this place, but the impressions of man's noble deeds, cast in the hearts of a grateful people, will, with the advancing march of civilization, grow into an even broader and deeper appreciation of the character of the American soldier.

The Andersonville monument is the eighth to be erected by different states of the union on the site of this battlefield. It is built of granite, is 54 feet long and 35 feet high and is surmounted by an eagle, with wings spread, being over seven feet from tip to tip of the wings. On either side of the monument is the coat of arms of the state and the motto, "Let Us Have Peace."

D. G. James of Richland Center, who turned the monument over to Gov. Davidson, is one of the union soldiers who was confined in Andersonville for over five months. During the one year that the old prison was used, 12,883 soldiers died, including 378 Wisconsin men.

The official party from Wisconsin will visit the Tuskegee Institute on invitation of Booker T. Washington tomorrow and expects to return to Madison about next Wednesday.

Out of Sight.

"Out of sight, out of mind," is an old saying which applies with special force to a sore, burn or wound that has been treated with Bucklen's Arnica Salve. It's out of sight, out of mind and out of existence. Piles too and chilblains disappear under its healing influence. Guaranteed by O. T. Erhart, Druggist, 25c.

BURGLARS ENTER
STORES AND SALOON

ROBBERIES DISCOVERED TODAY
AT PRAIRIE DU CHIEN

CASE BROS. AMONG VICTIMS

Kaver Saloon Till Is Tapped for $60 and Robbers Make Escape With About $300 Booty

Last evening or early this morning robbers entered two stores and a saloon at Prairie du Chien, securing property and cash to the amount of perhaps $300.

The robbery may have been committed during the night, but Mr. Case, who owns the one store, passed his brother's place of business this morning, and saw a man inside. He was not suspicious, believing that his brother might be there early, as he often is.

At the store of L. Case the burglars did not succeed in getting much loot, only securing a quantity of merchandise.

They opened the front window and escaped from the store before they were apprehended.

$50 From Safe of Case.

From this place it is presumed that the thieves went to the store of Case's brother, where they effected entrance through a rear window.

Here they secured $50 in cash, besides numerous other articles of value. The money was taken from the safe, which was not blown, and it is supposed that the thieves may have been experienced in the manipulation of the drops in the lock of the vault. Mr. Case says he may have left the door of the safe ajar, but is not positive, as he generally makes sure that the safe has been properly closed before he leaves the store.

$60 From Kaver Saloon.

After entrance into the two stores the robbers went to the saloon of H. J. Kaver, where they broke the window in the rear and succeeded in getting $60 from the till.

They left through the front door which was opened, as though they had been accustomed to entering and leaving at their pleasure.

The bartender usually takes the money from the till every evening, but for some reason left the money there last evening.

There is no clue whatever to the thieves and the business men and citizens have taken extra precaution to be on the alert for a repetition of the robberies this evening.

800 PER CENT ON LAND IN FIVE YEARS

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—Eight hundred per cent in five years is the profit of J. P. Ketchum of this city upon a piece of lake property containing about 30 acres, which he bought five years ago for $150 an acre. Yesterday he sold the piece for $1,000 an acre. This is the largest gain in any property in the vicinity of Madison since the Tonywatha hotel was first built on La Monona.

FOR AN OPERATION

E. J. Williams was taken to Rochester, Minn., at 5 o'clock this morning, where he was operated upon by the Mayo Brothers for a delicate complication.

Mrs. E. J. Williams left at 8 o'clock this morning for the hospital at Rochester where she will remain for a few days with her husband who may be detained there for some time.

A Cabby Stung.

Foreigners often fall a prey to the unscrupulous wiles of the British cabbie, who basely takes advantage of the stranger's want of familiarity with English idiom, coinage and locality. We have heard of the intelligent foreigner being driven about six statute miles in a journey from London Bridge to Charing Cross. That cabbie got the best of the transaction, but a recent attempt to impose upon foreign credulity was frustrated cleverly by a son of Gaul, whose taste for joking led him to try to bamboozle a cabbie into attempting it with him. He demanded in exceedingly broken English to be driven to a certain place, the fare to which was exactly one shilling. It may be remarked that he really could speak English as well as he could his mother tongue. On arriving at his destination he asked, still in a struggling fashion:

"Ow moost 'ave I to pay?"

"Five shillings," promptly responded the cabbie.

"And 'ow moost is five shillings?" queried the traveler, taking out three half-crowns and laying them across his palm.

"Them three's right," said cabbie, pointing to the coins.

"Oh!" said the Frenchman. Then, dropping his assumed imperfect acquaintance with the vernacular.

"Well, here's a bob for you," he said, and departed, leaving his erstwhile jehu standing with a perplexed expression on his face, which took some time to disappear.—Tit-Bits.

"Now Johnny," asked the gentleman who had kindly consented to teach the class, "what does this fascinating story of Jonah and the whale teach us?"

"It teaches us," said Johnny, whose father reads practical articles on practical people, "that you cannot keep a good man down."—Harper's Weekly.

Digesto

MALT EXTRACT

Like the Famous Hamm's Beer it

"Leads them All"

In placing the thousandth and first Malt Extract on the market, it has been our aim to arrive at something better than just an ordinary extract of malt. There is a very strong demand for a malt which not only contains all the vitalizing elements of the various ingredients in the highest degree, but one that is palatable as well.

In DIGESTO we have evolved a perfect Malt Extract. It is composed of the highest grade of Imported Hops, the choicest selections of Barley and pure Artesian Water. In the brewing of Digesto, we have overcome that sweet taste which is objectionable in nearly all Malt Extracts, and have produced an extract so pleasant to the taste and so beneficial in the results obtained from its use that a success, fully as great as that attained by the famous Hamm's Beer, is assured.

REGENTS CALLED
FACULTY TO ACCOUNT

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—Although the faculty of the university undertook to deny that the regents at their meeting Tuesday passed a resolution abolishing the class rush and hazing at the university, it has been discovered that a resolution to this effect actually passed and will be enforced by President Van Hise. It was the spectacle of the college disciplinarians being called to account for not stopping rowdiness that the faculty did not like, and for this reason the regents consented not to give the resolution publicity if the faculty would "be good." This the faculty, through President Van Hise, has promised and an order prohibiting class rushes and hazing of every description will be issued soon—probably at the next convocation.

SISTERS LOST FOR 34 YEARS MEET

MADISON, Wis., Oct. 17.—After a separation of 34 years, during which time each thought the other dead, two sisters, Mrs. Anna Smith of this city, and Mrs. Paul Lang of Winona, Minn., have been united. It was Mrs. Lang who clung faintly to the hope that her sister was still alive, and finally she heard a rumor—based on a newspaper story which concerned Mrs. Smith—that her sister was living in Madison. She sent her son Charles to investigate and he found his aunt without any difficulty by reference to the directory. Mrs. Smith returned to Winona with him for a visit with her long lost sister.

"Oh, Johnny," cried the mother, "where did you get that dreadful black eye?"

"We wuz playn' directors' meetin'," replied the child, "an' I wuz in the chair."

NEW TOWNS IN SOUTH DAKOTA AND NORTH DAKOTA ON THE

Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul Railway.

Over 100 miles of track have already been laid on the Pacific Coast extension of this railway in South Dakota and North Dakota. Several new towns have also been opened along this new line. Among them is Lemmon, Butte County, South Dakota, 100 miles west of the Missouri River.

The opening sale of lots in the new town of Hettinger, North Dakota, 25 miles farther west, will be held Thursday, October 24, 1907. This new town will be the county seat of Adams County. All lots will be sold by auction.

The opening sale of lots in the new town of Bowman, North Dakota, 150 miles west of the Missouri River, will be held later. This new town will be the county seat of Bowman County.

Regular train service between Mobridge, the first station on the extension, and Lemmon, with direct connections from and to Aberdeen, South Dakota, was established October 6.

In each of these towns excellent opportunities are afforded in mercantile or professional work. Why not engage in some business there now, and grow up with these towns?

The territory through which the new line is being built in South Dakota and North Dakota offers exceptional opportunities for those who wish to engage in diversified farming.

broke all previous records. The first or long session of the fifty-ninth congress provided for total appropriations of $879,589,185. This total broke all records up to that time. In the aggregate, the fifty-ninth congress appropriated the enormous sum of $1,799,537,864, or over one and three-quarters billions. The fifty-ninth congress was not far behind, with a total of $1,601,357,010.

Some folks a few years ago stood appalled when they heard the phrase "a billion-dollar congress" applied. That was in the days of Tom Reed as speaker of the house. But the term has not merely become outgrown and a thing of history, but the day is close at hand, unless unexpected checks are put on appropriations, when the term, "a two-billion-dollar congress" will have to be applied.

Indications are, too, that "a billion-dollar session" will be applicable to the approaching session of congress. With the pressure from every side to get a fist in the public coffers that seems certain to be exerted, it is difficult to see how the limit of a proportionate can be held below the billion mark, aside from authorizations of enormous expenditures that will be saddled on future congresses.

The navy last session required nearly $100,000,000. But the general board wants four giant battleships and a number of smaller vessels. The president will back up the general board, possibly not for its whole program, but for a much larger one than usual. More warships, and these 20,000-ton ones cost $10,000,000 apiece, means more money for men and maintenance and as the navy expands vast sums must be spent on coaling stations, docks, navy yards and the like.

But a greater outlay than that for the big navy is the one called for by the advocates of the improvement of the inland waterways, particularly of the deepening of the Mississippi and its tributaries. This vast project would require hundreds of millions of dollars. Chairman Hepburn of the house interstate commerce committee recently put the figure at $500,000,000 for construction, saying nothing of large annual outlay for maintenance.

Recently, the rivers and harbors improvement advocates have declared for an annual allowance from congress for this purpose of $50,000,000 a year. They will bring great pressure on the coming session to get such a sum. The whole Mississippi Valley is stirred up on the question of improvement of inland waterways and will not let congress rest until a preliminary appropriation is made.

Then, there is the Panama canal, which few expect to see completed except at a cost far greater than the sum originally calculated upon. The army is calling for more pay per officer and man and for more officers and coast defenses. A strong effort will be made to get a public building bill passed the coming session, a bill making authorizations of many millions. The agricultural department wants more. It needs more funds to defray the cost of meat inspection, pure-food inspection and its constantly expanding activities in various directions. Before long, federal grain inspection will be undertaken in all probability.

the government wants more money. Congress itself has just given itself a 50 per cent increase in salary and is erecting magnificent office buildings for both senators and representatives.

Federal control of corporations, which the president urges, would add a large sum to the annual government outlay. The increase of authority of government over railroads means more outlay on the interstate commerce commission and it is now being seriously talked that a department of transportation must be provided. None can seriously dispute that an executive department comes high, even if the public does have to have it.

These are a few of the many lines along which increasing expenditures are running or are well-nigh certain to run in the near future. What congress has to consider is how to find revenue to meet the enormous outlay. Customs receipts cannot be increased greatly without revising the tariff upwards, whereas the talk now in many quarters is favorable to lowering duties. Internal revenue receipts threaten to fall off with the rapid spread of prohibition sentiment.

In some quarters, the interesting opinion obtains that congress will be forced, not the coming session but soon, to take up seriously the president's idea of a graduated inheritance tax. Later, consideration of the income tax may be forced upon it.
